Filibuster Blocks G. O. P. Plans

Oratory Barrage Threatens to Block Harding's Program

REPUBLICANS JOIN DEMOCRATIC FORCES

Underwood and Harrison Lead Attack on G. O. P. Policies

(United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Democratic filibuster in the senate against the administration program swung into full stride this afternoon under the leadership of Senators Underwood of Alabama and Harrison of Mississippi.

Attempts by Republican leaders to rush through the Dyer anti-lynching bill were met by a barrage of points of order, oratory and other filibustering tactics.

The Democrats have the support of insurgent Republicans. The filibusters hope to definitely delay any action on the measure at this session of congress.

Republicans Back Move.

As the roll calls continued to pile up in the mid-afternoon, it became apparent that many Republican votes were being cast favorable to the filibuster.

The movement completely tied up all business in the senate. At 2:45 p. m. the journal of Monday was still before the chamber and there had been nine roll calls. Senator Harrison continued to introduce amendments to the journal as fast as they were passed upon.

Harrison and Underwood turned the proceedings into a farce. Harrison managed to take up more than an hour attempting to amend the journal. Archives of the senate were searched for rules relating to such amendments.

Session Is Farce.

Underwood delivered an oration on the "sacredness and necessity for accuracy" in the historic document of the senate. Harrison called for a vote on his motion and Senator Swanson interposed with a point of no quorum present and asked that a quorum call be made before the vote.

In this manner the session dragged on. The filibusters appeared confident and gave clear evidence of their strength in the vote on the Harrison motion which was adopted by 52 to 29.

This manifestation of strength was taken as a proof by leaders in the filibuster that their move is sure to be successful.

After the Harrison motion had been disposed of, Senator Underwood moved adjournment of the senate and asked a record vote.

CHICAGO'S NEW ZOO TO SHOW ANIMALS IN NATURAL HAUNTS

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Construction of a 300-acre zoological garden—the largest in the world—was under way here today.

Not satisfied with having birds and beasts from every known land in the world represented in its exhibit, the Chicago Zoological Society has planned to bring with the animals their natural surroundings.

Plans for the vast park were drawn by Emmet J. Flavin, who worked in collaboration with the Hagenbeck brothers, owners of the famous Tierpark zoo at Stellingen, Germany. The 300-acre tract of land was given to the society by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

With sweeping hills and artificial rock cliffs for their haunts, and lakes, mountains, valleys and rivers especially prepared for the scenic effect, the animals will have ample room to move about and exhibit their natural habits.

"The gardens will give the animals all the freedom of large open spaces similar to their native haunts, but around each group a barrier, invisible at first will guard the onlookers," Flavin explained.

Two Poison Victims and Home of Couple Where Six Perished

POLICE BALKED IN POISONING CASE DEATH

(United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Death of Vaden Elwynne Boge, who drank Cyanide in his coffee at a "luncheon for two,"

In his hotel room here, was believed definitely established as a suicide when police learned today that Boge himself purchased the poison. The poison was sold by F. H. Lederer, druggist, and was signed by "V. E. Boge," who gave the street address of his cousin. Lederer said a young man bought the poison yesterday morning.

(United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Not the slightest trace of a woman companion of Vaden Elwynne Boge, who was poisoned mysteriously at a "luncheon for two," in his hotel room here, had been found by investigating officers today.

The "ghost woman" who was registered by Boge as his wife, may have been in the bathroom when the waiter served the meal, but if so, police are at a loss to explain how she escaped.

There was no mode of egress from the room except the door through which Boge ran screaming that he had been poisoned, and fell dead.

Apparently two persons had partaken of the partially consumed meal, but officers were inclining to the belief that Boge may have staged the scene for some mysterious reason.

Elevator employees did not remember carrying a woman passenger who could not be identified.

Word from Oregon authorities indicated that Boge was the son of Edward Boge, a well-to-do rancher near Hillsboro, Oregon, and that he was not married.

HILLSBORO, Ore., Nov. 28.—Vaden Boge, 22, dead in Los Angeles, is the son of Edward Boge, of Farmington, near here.

He was an employee of the telephone company here for some time, later going with the Western Electric company at Portland. He was transferred to Los Angeles and left Portland on the steamer Wapama November 18.

Boge was an ex-service man, formerly of Camp Lewis. The body will be brought here for American Legion burial.

WINE EXPLODED MEN GET BARRELS

OAKLAND, Nov. 28.—Neither the government nor an individual can prevent the fermentation of grape juice, according to Federal Judge William C. Van Fleet, who yesterday ordered returned to Pasquale Ottolengo and Louis Pasquale, Oakland, an automobile truck and seven empty, fifty-gallon barrels.

Ottolengo and Polinotto crushed sufficient grapes last Saturday to fill eight barrels. They started in a truck from Ottolengo's home to that of Polinotto. They were taken into custody by Oakland police on charge of illegally transporting "wine."

Since last Saturday one of the barrels exploded because of fermentation and, according to a government analysis, the "grape juice" had developed an alcoholic content of 12 per cent or more.

The court could not see its way clear to return grape juice that had so suddenly developed into wine and ordered the return of the empty barrels and the truck.

Former Cabinet Chiefs Pay With Lives for Collapse of Army

(United Press Leased Wire)

ATHENS, Nov. 28.—Six members of the Greek cabinet that fell when King Constantine abdicated were executed here today, it was officially announced. They were shot by a firing squad.

The ministers were condemned by a military court which investigated the recent Greek defeat in the war with Turkey. They were accused of being responsible for the Greek collapse.

Among those killed was former Premier Gounaris, arch enemy of Venizelos and instrumental in restoring Constantine to the throne.

Others executed were former Minister of War Theotokis, Minister Baltazzi, foreign affairs; Minister Protapadakis, finance; and M. Padjianestis, Goudas and Straigos were sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Stratigos, Padjianestis and Goudas were also sentenced to military degradation and the eight persons fined from 200,000 to 1,000,000 drachmas.

URGENT MOVES TO GUARD STATES FROM FLOODS

(United Press Leased Wire)

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 28.—The need of immediate protection of California and Arizona from floods was recognized by the Colorado river commission here, which recently concluded the drafting of a treaty for division of waters of the Colorado river among seven western states.

The following resolution was adopted by the commission: "The members of the Colorado river commission have had constantly before them the great menace, by annual floods, to the lives and property of the Imperial and Palo Verde valleys in California and the Yuma valley in Arizona, and the anxiety of their citizens. Therefore they earnestly recommend and urge the early construction of works in the Colorado river to control the floods and permanently avoid the menace, such construction to be made subject to the terms of the Colorado river compact."

A compact between the states of Colorado and New Mexico to provide for the equitable distribution of the waters of the La Plata river, as between the two states, was signed here last night. The pact will become operative after it is ratified by the legislatures of the two states.

JOHNSON HOLDS STATE COMES ABOVE PARTY

(United Press Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson's newest challenge to his opponents rang throughout California today while political observers wondered just how deep might be its meaning.

"I am a Republican," Johnson told a gathering here last night, which formed the "Roosevelt Club of Northern California" and added:

"But if the day ever comes when the Republican party dishonestly opposes progress in California then I am for California."

"There is something bigger than party loyalty. That is loyalty to the people."

"During the last six years great aggregations of capital have organized. They have a right to organize. But I say to you who have gone through the fires in California that we have the same right to organize to fight for the things California has achieved."

The Roosevelt club will be headed by Senator Herbert Jones as president. Its purpose was stated "to incite the ideals of Theodore Roosevelt and perpetuate the principle of progressive Republicanism."

EXECUTION FOR DE VALERA AIM OF ENEMIES

(United Press Leased Wire)

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—Eamonn de Valera today from his hiding place defied the Free State by naming a new Irish republican government of his own.

The rebel cabinet, most of whose members are in jail, includes: President and minister of foreign affairs, De Valera; minister of finance, Stack; home secretary, Rutledge; minister of defense, Liam Bellows; minister of local government, Sean O'Kelly; minister of economics, Robert Barton.

With the announcement of the cabinet, presaging, in the opinion of some quarters, a rebel offensive, the Free State troops renewed their drastic efforts to get de Valera.

The Irish "republican president" may be executed if captured. This was indicated in an interview by President Cosgrave of the Daill.

"Execution will not cease until the rebels have surrendered their arms," was Cosgrave's ultimatum.

Here's Probable Lineup In Big Grid Battle And Officials

The Santa Ana and Fullerton football teams, in their fight for the championship of the Orange league, took the field this afternoon as follows:

Santa Ana	Fullerton

Townsend	LG Salter
Thoele	LT White

The officials were: Glen Whittle, Los Angeles high school, referee; Sid Foster, Manual Arts high school, umpire; Cyril Tipton, Los Angeles Intermediate, head line-man; Voyle Brennan, Los Angeles Polytechnic high school, field judge.

CABINET IS SPLIT OVER BIG MERGER

Wallace and Daugherty Differ Over Legality of Proposed Packer Combination.

(United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—A split has developed in President Harding's cabinet over the proposed merger of the Armour and Morris packing interests.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in charge of the enforcement of all packer control laws, is strongly opposed to the consolidation.

Attorney General Daugherty, the law officer of the government, who would conduct any prosecution of the packers at the request of the department of agriculture, not only sees no legal obstacle to the merger, but favors it.

President Harding will have to make the final decision.

Secretary Wallace's views are more nearly those of the farm bloc in congress, which the President has consistently opposed, and in the present situation Wallace has the support of this powerful group.

DENY HELP FOR VESSELS WITH BOOZE CARGO

(United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The house today took steps to keep the American merchant marine dry.

It indirectly gave its approval to the Daugherty ruling banning liquor from American ships throughout the world by adopting an amendment to the ship subsidy bill prohibiting any vessel from receiving government financial aid on a voyage when intoxicating liquors are carried with the knowledge of any one in authority on the vessel.

This amendment was proposed by Representative Edmonds, Pennsylvania, as a substitute for a proposal of Representative Bankhead, Alabama, barring any ship from forever receiving any of the subsidy benefits if it carried liquors.

Another blow was struck at the bill, however, when the house adopted viva voce an amendment knocking out the "permanent appropriation" feature and stipulating that no subsidy money shall be paid out except as it is appropriated each year.

Republican leaders backed down before the onslaught of Democrats and western Republicans.

Chairman Madden, Illinois, of the appropriations committee, offered the amendment. Republican Floor Leader Mondell promptly endorsed it.

An amendment by Representative Frear, Republican, Wisconsin, providing that no part of the $125,000,000 construction fund could be paid out until the excess profits tax had been re-enacted, was smothered by so many "noes" that Frear did not think it worth while to insist upon a record vote.

LOST IN NORTH FOR 117 YEARS RETURNS

SASKATOON, Sask., Nov. 28.—Lost among the Indians of the north country for seventeen years, Archie Brighton, now 33 years old, found his way back to civilization and his old home at Battleford, Saskatchewan, last week.

According to Brighton's story, he left for the Yukon with a number of miners in 1905, was taken north by them and finally abandoned among the Indians. From that time until he reached Battleford, he said, he had never seen a newspaper, knew neither where he was nor of the passage of time, and lived the life of the aborigines.

'SNAKE BURGLAR' LOOTS RESIDENCE

Sheriff's deputies and police officers in Orange county today initiated a fresh search for "Tex," known as "the rattlesnake burglar," following a robbery at the residence of L. E. Sutherland, East Anaheim, last night.

According to a report which Sheriff C. E. Jackson received here, "Tex" left at the Sutherland residence ere departing with his loot, a penned note, reading:

"Why don't you stay at home when I call? Tex."

The burglar obtained a ruby ring, a mirror, a man's ring, with an army insignia design, a manicure set, a fraternity pin, a brooch, shaped like a wishbone; and a pair of trousers.

The value of the loot was not stated.

The note was evidently written with a fountain pen, it was said. The writing appeared to be that of a young man, according to Sheriff Jackson.

"These exploits of the man who styles himself Tex are evidently those of one who is seeking notoriety," Jackson commented.

This was the second of a series of similar talks which will be made for KFAW by prominent Orange county citizens.

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED
A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills
I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger.
So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 18 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your medicine. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be advising some one older."

erty St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Reports from the residence of ware company, were to the effect that he was much improved today.

Trago has been confined to his bed several days by a serious illness.

R. D. Flaherty, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, was visiting Stanton, Cypress and other communities today preparing for the opening of the bureau membership campaign in those districts beginning next week.

Representative poultrymen of the seven southern counties will attend the poultry conference at Pomona next Friday, December 1.
W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor here, announced today. Orange county will be represented by W. S.
Hatch, Tustin; Hubert Howell, Garden Grove; R. D. Flaherty, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, and Cory. The program of 1923 activities will be outlined at this meeting, Cory said, and each county will report on a certain phase of the year's work just complete. Orange county has been assigned to report on marketing.

The Santa Ana Ministerial association, meeting at James's cafe here at noon today, just preceding the Orange County Clerical club meeting, passed a resolution to hold a week of prayer here and named a committee to arrange a program. The committee consisted of the Rev. P. F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church; the Rev. Otto S. Russell, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor of the First Methodist church. The date when the prayer week will be held was not decided on.

The Fullerton Kiwanis club, meeting there today, presented to the Boy Scout troop of Newport Beach a cup which the boys won in the recent Armistice day parade at Fullerton. The Rev. C. R.
Montague, pastor of the Methodist church, Fullerton, made the presentation speech.

The season's first shipment of navel oranges will leave the Anaheim district tomorrow, it was learned here today. The Anaheim Orange and Lemon association will make the shipment. This organization, and also the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, began picking navel oranges yesterday. Due to railroad congestion, it is imperative that all navel shippers be completed by December 5, it was stated, if the fruit is to reach Eastern markets in time for Christmas trade.

SIXTH FEED POOL
NOTICES MAILED

Notices calling attention of subscribers to the sixth feed pool of the Orange County Feed Dealers' association and the farm bureau membership were being mailed today, R. D. Flaherty, secretary-manager of the bureau, said.

The notification calls for statement of December feed requirements to be delivered during the first week of the coming month, he said. The buyer gets his feed at cost price plus 20 cents cartage to Costa Mesa and operating margin of dealer.

During the six months that the feed pooling plan has been in being, it has saved the buyer from 10 to 50 cents a hundred, Flaherty explained.

Farmer-owned feed companies have not been as successful as the feed pooling plan in operation here which has brought co-operation between farmer and feed merchant, according to Flaherty.

Feed merchant members of the association include R. B. Newcomb and A. N. Zerman, Santa Ana; Harry Pieper, Tustin; Pease Kolberg company, Orange; F. L. Faris, Orange and Fullerton; Anaheim Feed and Fuel company, and the Garden Grove feed store.

REVEAL WHY SCHOOL

BONDS ARE NEEDED

Increased school attendance is the reason why the board of education of Santa Ana has called for bonds, $250,000 for the high school district and $150,000 for the grammar school district, to be voted on December 9.

The reason is outlined briefly in a printed statement that was being sent today to registered voters of the two districts together with sample ballots and directions as to polling places.

The statement reads as follows:
"The board of education regrets exceedingly that it has become absolutely necessary to call another bond election so soon, but the unprecedented increase in the population of our city the past year has naturally caused a large increase in our school population. We now have an increase of more than 900 pupils in our schools, over last year.

Our junior high school has an attendance of nearly a thousand and is badly crowded. Many of our elementary schools are also crowded.
Our new schools now nearing completion will provide accommodations only for this school year.

Some provision must be made in advance for next year, hence this bond election.

Andrews, secretary; J. Dick Wilson, Chas. F. Smith, H. C. Dawes."

LADDER SLIPS.
ARNOLD PEEK
IS IMPALED

Arnold Peek, proprietor of the Fourth street market, Fourth street and Broadway, was confined to his home today recovering from injuries received at 3 p. m. yesterday when he fell from a ladder in the refrigerating room of his shop and was impaled on a meat hook.

The hook entered his right side between the ribs, making a severe wound. The lung, however, was not penetrated, as was at first feared.

Peek had gone into the refrig-erating room to hang up a number of turkeys. The ladder on which he was standing slipped from under him and he fell on the hook.
He was suspended several seconds.
L. D. DeGray, an employee, who was in the room, released him.

Peek will be able to be in the shop in a day or two, it was stated, but it probably will be some days before he will be able to resume active work.

WOMEN'S CLUB TO BUILD CLUBHOUSE

With approximately $1400 in the fund and two lots in the Fullerton subdivision on the boulevard west of town donated as a site, members of the Women's Civic club of Garden Grove today were anticipating the date when actual construction of a modern clubhouse may be started.

Decision to accept the site offer was reached at a meeting of the club late yesterday. Some objection was made because the lots were at some distance out of town. It was pointed out, however, that most of the eighty women identified with the organization have automobiles and that the distance made no particular difference.

Supporters of the free site won over those who declared that it would be better to purchase a lot close in so that the clubhouse might be more accessible to pedestrians.

Tentative plans include the building of a new clubhouse, establishment of tennis courts and provision of other facilities that will offer outdoor exercise to the members.

A committee has been appointed to visit clubhouses in various parts of Southern California with a view to getting ideas for incorporation in the local house.

Plans are being developed for giving dinners and other social affairs for increasing the building fund of the club.

S. A. FOLK PRESENT AT GATE CITY MEETING

Members of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club who last night attended the charter presentation of the San Bernardino club today were declaring that the event was one of the most enjoyable of the many such events they have attended recently.

Three hundred men and women were present, many of them being delegates from other clubs in Southern California. Stunts by various clubs made the evening lively.
Long addresses were taboo. The dinner and program was over in two hours and was followed by a dance.

The Santa Ana delegation chartered a stage for the trip. Among those from here were Mr. and Mrs.
A. N. Zerman, Mr. and Mrs. Neal
Beisel, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Mater,
M. B. Wellington, John Knox, O. A.
Haley, Robert Atkinson, Otto Haan,
R. R. Miller, J. S. Hill, Phil Lutz, Ralph Huntington, Walter Eden,
L. H. Shute, Stanley Reed, Fred
Newcomb and T. A. Winbiger.

BIBLE CLASS HOLD BANQUET FRIDAY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 28.—Mayor C. A. Buffum of Long Beach will be the principal speaker at the Community Bible Class banquet to be held at the Del Mar Cafe Friday, December 8 at 7:00 p. m. R. E. Miller of Santa Ana, and County Probation officer, will also grace the banquet with his presence and give a short talk on his work. The banquet is being held in honor of the new class leader and pastor of the Christian Church, the Rev. "Jim" Hurst, who took up his duties November 4th. The class has been holding meetings regularly for several years and has a large membership. There will be music by the Lions Orchestra and singing by the class quartette. Ray Overacker, who is the president of the class is very much elated at the outlook for increased activity.

Merchants Celebrate.
The merchants of Huntington Beach are going to give away 38 nice big fat turkeys Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock as Thanksgiving presents to their patrons. They will also give away Christmas presents on Saturday, December 23d in the afternoon and in the evening there will be a Christmas celebration on the pier, a large Christmas tree and candy for the kiddies being provided by the Lions club.

DREDGING PROGRESS.
NEWPORT, BALBOA, Nov. 28.—The steam dredge Upson, of the Los Angeles Dredging company, has returned to work on the county turning basin, after an absence of many months. During this period the dredger was partially wrecked in a May storm when working in the entrance. While the dredger has been doing work in soft sand since then, it is only recently that it has been restored to its customary efficiency. A portion of the material excavated from the turning basin is to form the approaches for the new city bridge over the Santa Ana river, a contract for which has been let to the McCreary Bridge and Construction company. The proposed bridge is to be but a small portion of the length of the present bridge, the balance of the distance to be covered by embankment.

LAGUNA BEACH SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 28.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thurston was the setting for an attractive wedding Saturday morning, when Miss June Harding, sister of Mrs. Thurston, and Robert Strever Curtes of Exeter, Tulare county, were united in marriage in the presence of fifty or more friends. Rev. A. H. Burkholder, pastor of the Laguna Beach Community church, performed the ceremony.

Similar and white chrysanthemums, the bride's favorite flower, were prominent in the house decorations which were admirably carried out by Mrs. Lillian Taylor. At the appointed time Miss Josephine Hills accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Violet Case, played two violin solos, "Cafatina" by Raff and Joslyn's "Berceuse." To the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Kenneth Woods of Riverside, and as little Doris Thurston, niece of the bride, scattered flower petals along the way, the bride party entered and advanced to the white chrysanthemum arch before which the ceremony was performed.

The bride wore a gown of white satin over which fell the customary long tulle veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Nelda Machander, of Santa Ana, the bridesmaid, was gown in lavender crepe de chine. William Young, a cousin of the groom and football coach at Redlands university, was "best man." A wedding breakfast, much of which was prepared by Mrs. William Scamman, followed and was served by Louise Annette Burkholder, Borah Laron, Mrs. Violet Case and Doris Allen. The bride, who has practically lived her entire life in Laguna Beach, was the recipient of many lovely gifts, among which were noticed several oil paintings from local artists. After a short honeymoon the newlyweds will go to Los Angeles, where they will be the honored guests of the bride's brother, Richard Hardins and wife at a family reunion and Thanksgiving dinner to be partaken of in Sycamore grove. Other guests of the day will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thurston and daughters, Virginia and Doris, of Laguna Beach, Mr. and Mrs. James Harding and sons, Gordon and Bruce, of Santa Ana. About December 1 Mr. and Mrs. Curtes will leave for Woodlake, Tulare county, which will be their future home.

Out-of-town relatives and guests who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. James Harding and sons, Gordon and Bruce, of Santa Ana, Ruth Harding, Anna Hogarson, Eddie Hogarson, Harriet Hauson and Blanche Reguler of Bakersfield, Arthur Buyers of San Bernardino and Lloyd Young of Redlands.

Placentia was well represented at the first concert of the third season of the Orange County Symphony orchestra at Fullerton on Friday night. Placentia music lovers were more than pleased with this opening concert of the season. The orchestra personnel from here this year was first violin, Gifford Farrer; second violin, Gertrude Wichers; cellos, Francis Dowling; bass violins, William Dowling; cornet, Warren M. Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fuller and Mrs. Eliza Payton spent Friday in Redlands. Mr. and Mrs. James Huntley of Madison avenue, and the latter's nephew, Gordon Key, were Sunday visitors at their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tyler of South Pasadena.

Miss Ada Sturdevant of Kraemer avenue, is home after a pleasant sojourn with friends in Los Angeles for a week.

W. R. Moss, of Long Beach, spent the week-end with his daughter, Mrs. Len Green, Main street. The Hi Flier boys are enjoying the basketball field on the lot west of the Liberty garage, which H. M. Remington donated to their use, and on which with their leader, George Key, they have rigged up a basketball apparatus.

Mrs. Adella Howerton and daughter, Ruth, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Prather, are planning to spend the Thanksgiving holidays at Catalina Island.

FLEET TARGET PRACTICE
NEWPORT, Nov. 28.—Despite the recent orders for the Pacific fleet to proceed further off-shore when participating in target practice, the conclusions from firing of the big guns appeared to be as violent as ever during the latter part of the week. Those who lived upon the ocean front were partially recompensed, however, by the beautiful display of star shells during the night work. These miniature suns which are hurled high in the air to illuminate the targets, float slowly seaward suspended from their parachutes. The distance is so great that when seen from shore they appear to hang motionless. They are frequently fired in groups of four or five, and present a very striking effect.

BRIDGE CLUB ENJOYS 1ST PRIVATE PARTY

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 28.—Miss Annie Gayne Peake entertained the CHIT Dwellers' Bridge club at luncheon at "The Raven" Friday and later at bridge at the Community clubrooms, where they were joined by a few invited guests. The first prize was won by Mrs. Frank Champion and the guest prize by Leta Perine. Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed "over the tea cups."

This occasion marked the first entertainment of a personal nature to be held in the Community clubroom and no doubt the precedent will be followed by more private parties during the winter.

Those present were Mabelle Lord Frost, Mary Gray, Mary Riker, Mrs. Frank Case and daughter, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. William Swift, Daniel, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. R. Clarkon Colman, Mrs. Frank Champion, Mrs. "Gavvy" Cravath, Mrs. Eva Perine, Miss Leta Perine, Mrs. Joe Skidmore, Miss Jessie Washburn, Mrs. H. G. Heisler, Mrs. Eva Lenhart, Mrs. Purpus and Leota Woy.

PAVING OPERATIONS.

NEWPORT, BALBOA, Nov. 28.—Preparations for paving are progressing in a most satisfactory manner. A large part of the grading in the western portion of the city has been done, and concrete will be laid very shortly. Sand and gravel for sidewalks has been deposited along Central avenue, and this phase of the work will soon be under way. In the paving work the latest methods are to be followed. Sand and gravel will be removed from the cars by a large power crane and placed in bins. From the bins the material will be dropped into small boxes placed on industrial railway cars. The industrial railway track will parallel the path of the gigantic concrete mixer, an arm of which will reach out and lift the loaded boxes, dumping them into the mixing drum.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Nov. 28.—The Indoor Circus given by the Golden Rule Sunday school class on Friday evening at the school hall was well attended and netted the class about $30 to swell their treasury.

Several of the Park residents are enjoying the comfort of riding in new sedan cars. Dr. Johnson and Mr. Ryman are each riding in new Jewett sedans and Mr. Clyde Ritter has recently purchased a new Dodge sedan.

Mr. Clyde Ritter and Lester Schofield attended the scoutmasters school at the Orange county park on Saturday.

Mrs. Ritter spent the day Saturday in her art work at Orange. Dr. J. R. Schofield presided at the Persimmon Institute in Fullerton on Saturday. The institute was well attended and much interest shown in the industry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Stewart were guests at the Wilsey home last week. Mr. and Mrs. Wilsey accompanied them to Huntington Park on Wednesday.

The Mitchell Brothers have moved their repair shop from the Wright building and are occupying temporary quarters in the old Nelson building on North Grand avenue. Their new, up-to-date building which they are erecting will soon be ready for occupancy. It will be a great addition to the town.

Mr. Wright is pushing his new auto sales building rapidly forward and will soon be ready to occupy it.

Dance given by Knights of Columbus baseball team of Anaheim, Wednesday evening, Nov. 29, 9 o'clock, at Knights of Columbus hall, Anaheim. Everybody welcome.

Young Couple Return
From Honeymoon
In North

Returning from a motor honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Wiekhorst were today established at the home of Mr. Wiekhorst's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wiekhorst, 114 Cypress avenue, where they will remain until the completion of their own pretty new bungalow home.

The marriage of Miss Marian Shell, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Shell of Orange and one of the most popular girls in that community, to Mr. Wiekhorst was a quiet event of Saturday, November 18 and occurred at Alhambra at the personage home of the Rev.
Mr. Kirk of the First Christian church.

Only the immediate relatives were present and following the ceremony, the young couple at once took their departure for San Francisco and other northern points of interest.

Mr. Wiekhorst is connected with the Central garage and his bride are being showered with happy congratulations by a host of friends.

Ebell Club

Commemorative of "Flanders day," an anniversary particularly dear to Ebell members, was the excellent program presented yesterday afternoon and again in the evening at the Temple theater by the past presidents of the club.

Elaine Hammerstein in the film play "Under Oath" was chosen as a popular entertainment since love for motion pictures is almost a general attribute. The picture proved highly pleasing to the interested members and their guests who filled the auditorium at the afternoon performance and enjoyed in addition, a song recital by Miss Louise Montgomery.

Miss Montgomery chose "Wind" by Rogers Shubert's "Geronade" and "Floods of Spring" by Rachmaninoff as her offerings and was accompanied delightfully by Mrs. Arnold Peek.

In the evening, attendance was not confined to Ebell members and their guests but was general at the prevailing prices.

Miss Montgomery appeared again on the evening program, using the same group as in the afternoon with the substitution of "Rain" by Pearl Curran for the Rachmaninoff number. Associated with her was Ollinas Enlow Matthews in a violin group, "A Poem" by Fibich and "Liebesleid" by Kreisler. Mrs.
Matthews responded to an encore with Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of India."

The musical program closed with the appearance of Leon Eckles in a vocal group, "The Two Grenadiers" by Schumann and "Consecration" by Manning.
Earl Fraser offered brilliant accompaniments for the evening program.

Modern Poetry

tain the members of the Modern Poetry section of Ebell club at her

Sycamore Rebekah

It was a happy night for youngsters at the I. O. O. F. hall Saturday, when Sycamore Rebekah lodge entertained the children of the members with a party after the business session.

About sixty-five little people congregated for the event and the program was given entirely by small folk. Songs and recitations followed each other in rapid succession until the refreshment hour when the small guests were escorted to the banquet hall and served with ice cream, wafers, syrup-cheeked apples and candies,
the latter in attractive small baskets which were the favors.

The grown-up hosts at the same time enjoyed lemon rolls and hot coffee. Representatives from To-rosa lodge and from lodges of nearby cities were among the welcomed guests.

Hope for Snow
On Vacation Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tournat of 1805 North Bush street, left Sunday morning for a two weeks' northern trip. They planned to spend a few days in San Francisco and also to stop at Santa Rosa where they would be guests of Mr.
Tournat's brother and his wife, Mr.
and Mrs. Waldo Tournat. Lake Tahoe and Truckee will be visited on the trip and the Santa Anas expect and hope to encounter much snow and ice. At Reno and other Nevada cities, they will visit school friends of Mrs. Tournat's.

Mr. Tournat delayed his vacation, usually taken in the summer, until the present season in order to take advantage of the winter sports while away.

Artists' Reception
At St. Ann's Inn
Greatly Anticipated

With tonight marking the Laguna Beach Art association reception at St. Ann's Inn, interest among the guests honored with invitations was today mounting higher and higher.

Ebell members and their husbands, Music association members and their husbands or wives, were so honored and interested response has been almost unanimous. The affair was planned to recognize the tri-annual change in the canvases by Laguna artists which adorn the walls of the Inn, and G. A. Schweiger, manager of the Inn, has entered thoroughly into the spirit of hospitality and will serve refreshments to the guests who are expected to congregate at 8 o'clock.

Miss Anna A. Hills, president of the art association, with C. Clarkson Coleman, vice-president, and F. W. Cuprien, past president, will be in the receiving line and have asked Mrs. John Clarkson, Ebell president, Clarence Gustlin, Music association president, with Mrs.
Gustlin and Mr. Clarkson to assist them.

There are twenty beautiful examples of the artists' work hanging in the Inn and many of the creators of the two wonderful canvases will be present to greet their friends and admirers.

It is expected that the occasion will be one of the most uniquely brilliant functions of the year at the Inn, which is rapidly assuming its place as the social center of the city.

Delphian Society

Due to the proximity of Thanksgiving the meeting of Gamma section of the Delphian society, scheduled to be held Friday morning,
December 1 at the home of Mrs.
Ella Campau, has been postponed one week.

It will meet at the regular morning hour on Friday, December 8.

Haoma Sanctorum

Excellent music is being arranged for the dance to be given tonight by the Orientals of Haoma Sanctorum at I. O. O. F. hall. These dances are proving highly successful, and a large crowd is anticipated for tonight's affair which will be the Thanksgiving dance with arrangements in the hands of C. A. Palmer of Orange and W. W. Chandler of this city. Dancing will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Yesterday's Wedding Completes Romance
Of Kansas Days

Coming as a surprise to the majority of her friends was the announcement made today of the wedding of Mrs. Grace Lowman of this city and Charles Arns of Los Angeles which took place yesterday in Los Angeles.

Today the happy couple are honeymooning in the northern part of the state and their friends are planning a loving greeting when they return at the expiration of their two weeks' trip, to make their home in Huntington Park.

The wedding completed a childhood romance in a delightful manner, Mrs. Lowman and Mr. Arns having been sweethearts in Kansas are either dreamed of making California their home. Meeting here after a number of years had elapsed, the friendship was revived

Surprise Dinner
And Dancing Party

Miss Isabel Lopez and Howard Meldrum arranged a pleasant surprise for Herbert Carter Saturday when they were joint entertainers at a 6 o'clock dinner honoring Mr.
Carter's birthday.

The Meldrum home at 311 North McClay street was the scene of the affair and when the honoree accepted the informally extended invitation to drop in for dinner it was in complete lack of knowledge of the guests who awaited in the darkened room.

The table was centered with one perfect red rosebud in a crystal budvase and the delicious dinner menu was enjoyed by the Misses Isabel Lopez, Bessie Norman of Upland, Helen Young and Alma Ambersen, Messrs. Howard Meldrum, Harry Carroll, Russell Peterson, the honoree, Herbert Carter, and Mr. and Mrs. John Steele of Upland.

MEXICO, KELLY ON EDGE FOR RING GO

Huntington Beach Scrapper Gets In Shape After Month's Layoff

Kid Mexico of Huntington Beach, wielder of the most wicked uppercut in these parts, and Tom Kelly, former amateur middleweight champion of the Pacific coast, today were taking it easy after a training siege for their main event fray at Boyd Ellis' Delhi arena tomorrow night.

Kelly will appear in the feature preliminary at Vernon tonight. Mexico, who has laid off the boxing game for the last month, has worked hard for his fight here and had told friends that he intends to show the doubting ones that his win over Kelly at Delhi two months ago was legitimate.

Henry Gatten and Eddie Rowe are down for one part of the double semi-windup. Gatten recently lost a close verdict to Harry Lee, a man that outweighed him twenty pounds. Rowe will be just about his weight and the Santa Ana boy figures to annex the decision.

Young Vasquez, local boxer, meets Billy Maxwell, the little blonde fellow who looked so good in his first Delhi appearance a few weeks ago; have at it in the other semi-windup tilt.

One of the features of the card looms in the fray between Johnny Nandes and Young Monroe. Nandes licked Monroe two weeks back in a bout that was full of thrills and slams. Monroe claimed he was in poor shape and asked for another shot at the Anaheim youngster.

MORVICH PLACED IN STUD IN KENTUCKY

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Morvich, winner of the Kentucky Derby and one of the champion "busts" of the year, is to be shipped to the Daingerfield farm in Kentucky, where he will be placed in the stud. Man o'War will be one of his neighbors.

FOLLOWERS OF ANDY GUMP BACK HIM FOR MANY HIGH OFFICES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Fictitious and ineligible favorites battled well with the voters in the recent elections, official returns here indicated today.

"Andy Gump," wearing no man's collar, was the most versatile if not the most popular candidate. He received 21 votes for United States senator, one for attorney general and three for governor.

Clara Phillips and Paddy Arbuckle got one vote each for supreme court justice, and Arthur Burch received one vote for chief justice.

Will Rogers, with one vote, lost out in the race for governor. None of these candidates have filed campaign expenses.

TWO ALL-AMERICAN TEAMS TO MEET AT COLUMBUS SATURDAY

The Eastern team will be composed of McLaren, Pittsburgh; Casey, Harvard; Kaw, Cornell; Erickson, W. & J. Moseley, Yale; Hogsett, Dartmouth; Ashbaugh, Brown; Munns, Cornell; West, Colgate; Peck, Pittsburgh, and Cutler, Syracuse.

The Western All-Americans will be: Roberts, Centre; McMillan, Centre; Eichenlaub, Notre Dame; Muller, California; Huffman, Ohio State; Vick, Michigan; Nemecok, Ohio State; Wallace, Iowa State; Bolen, Ohio State, and Cragie, Illinois.

PENN'S OBJECTIVE ON GRID IS GAME WITH CORNELL TEAM

COFFROTH HAS EDGE IN FIGHT FOR TRACK

(United Press Leased Wire)
SAN DIEGO, Nov. 28.—Indications today were that James Wood Coffroth will open the TI Juana race track as planned on Thanksgiving Day.

With the opening race but 48 hours away, another delay in the court action brought by Jerome Bassity, to dispossess Coffroth, has been granted.

This time the matter is referred back to the federal court at La Paz, from the justice court at TI Juana.

Indications were that the decision, even if it favored Bassity, would not be handed down in time for the opening.

Coffroth, who is lying in bed with a broken shoulder, sustained in a fall last week, is directing his opening plans by telephone, and today stated he had no doubt about opening the track.

Bassity, on the other hand, is still hopeful that an eleven-hour decision will turn the track over to him.

There are 950 horses at the track today and preparations are complete for the opening.

FIRST WHITE TOWN TO BE REPRODUCED

BELLEVEILLE, Ill., Nov. 28.—The town of Cahokia, 15 miles southwest of Belleville, said to have been the first white settlement in the west, may be restored to its appearance of more than 200 years ago.

The St. Clair Historical society has been urged to ask the next legislature for an appropriation to restore the village and create there a state park. Cahokia was founded in 1700 by French pioneers. It was the seat of the first court house in Illinois, and of the first church. The church is still standing. In 1769, Pontiac, the famous Indian chief, was assassinated at Cahokia.

The old court house is now on display in Lincoln Park, Chicago, having been moved there from St. Louis, where it was exhibited at the World's Fair in 1904.

CHAS. F. CARLSON

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—The success or failure of University of Pennsylvania's football season will depend on the outcome of the Thanksgiving Day game with Cornell. That is the big game of the year from a Pennsylvania standpoint, winning it blots out any other unpleasant incidents of the season.

Pennsylvania unquestionably has the material for a great team. In most of the games this year it has looked the part, in some it has been only mediocre. In other words, it is a rather erratic eleven.

In the game with the Navy which was won 13 to 7, Pennsylvania gave a demonstration of the power that the eleven really possesses. After being pointed for the Navy game the team naturally let down, but no one thought for a minute that it would slump off enough to be beaten by Alabama 9 to 7. Alabama had previously been overwhelmed by Georgia Tech, which had been trounced by the Navy.

Then came another reverse at the hands of University of Pittsburgh by a 7 to 6 score. Coach Heisman finally got his pupils into winning ways once more when Penn State was beaten 7 to 6.

After a season filled with joy and gloom, Heisman is again pointing his team for the big game of the year, Cornell. If Penn can defeat Cornell all will be forgotten. If Penn loses to the Ithaca team, and the dope has it that way, rumors will soon be spread that Coach Heisman is through.

OHIO MAN WANTS TO BUILD AIRSHIP HERE

"Do you think enough money could be subscribed in Fresno to help me put up an initial airship which I have patented and which is a combination dirigible and airplane?" J. M. Cripe, of Lima, Ohio, asks in a letter received by directors of the commercial club yesterday.

"Refer it to the architect," one of the members suggested facetiously. No one seemed enthusiastic or responsive to the proposition. It was finally referred to the chamber of commerce.

"I believe the time is soon coming, however, Fred B. Billings remarked, 'when airships will be a common mode of transportation around here.'"

The letter from Mr. Cripe concluded: "After an initial ship is built successfully and the project looks feasible, do you think enough money could be subscribed to launch the business of manufacturing ships in Fresno and operating a transportation company with general offices in Fresno."

EXPERT DISCUSSES 1923 GRID COACHES

Tad Jones' Yale Leader, May Get Sack as Club Falls Down on Job

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Even though many eastern records must be a little better looking at the end of the 1922 football season, few changes are expected among the prominent coaches.

Because the Yale eleven turned out to be a fine fizzle instead of the great machine that was expected last September, it was expected outside of Yale circles that Tad Jones would lose his job. Jones not only will not lose his job, but he will be given a vote of confidence this winter, according to reliable information. Those on the inside claim that Yale blundered and floundered around this season through no fault of the coach. Losing to Princeton and Brown, Harvard had a bad season, but no one of Crimson following had a thought of holding Bob Fisher or the Houghton system responsible. The Houghton system is a mighty influence at Harvard.

Bill Roper may not return to Princeton because he is now laboring under the pressure of outside business, and it is understood that he may be named for a responsible government position. Roper is now prominent in Philadelphia politics and has a good law practice.

Johnny Heisman is sure of his job at Pennsylvania university, but Hugo Bezdek may step out of the Athletic chair at Penn State and get back into professional baseball as the manager of the Philadelphia Nationals.

"Greasy" Neale is through at W. and J. He blames friction with the faculty for conditions that forced him to look for a job elsewhere. Neale has had many offers but he wants to come to Columbia.

W. and J. is after Knute Rockne, the capable director of athletics and coach at Notre Dame. Rockne has two years to go at Notre Dame and it isn't quite possible that the Hoosier university will allow a matter of dollars to come between him and his present job.

Walter Johnson ill with cold and boil.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 28.—Walter Johnson, Washington pitching ace, is ill at the home of his father-in-law, ex-Congressman E. E. Roberts, here. A severe cold kept him to bed, and, to complicate his illness, a boil has developed on his pitching hand.

SAYS UNMERGER HANDICAP TO FRUIT MEN

(United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Richard Sachse, engineer for the California railroad commission, today urged the continued unified operation of the Southern-Central Pacific railroad system as the most efficient method of marketing California's fruit crop. Sachse, testifying before the interstate commerce commission, stated that car supply is one of the greatest single factors in the fruit industry in his state.

J. W. Hay, livestock raiser at Rock Springs, Wyo., speaking for the Laramie council of industry, told the commission that the people of his state feared that if the Southern Pacific diverted traffic from the Central Pacific it would decrease the volume of railroad business moving through Wyoming.

"We want the Central Pacific maintained by the Southern Pacific," said Hay.

Indications today are that the large number of witnesses from the Pacific coast who favor the separation of these two railroads will not appear on the stand until after Thanksgiving. More than two hundred of them are in Washington.

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

Stocks Recover from Monday Slump and Stage Important Gains

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Recent selling was so obviously overdone that there was nothing surprising about substantial recoveries on the New York stock market today.

Some uneasiness was manifested by the shorts during Monday's late trading and this feeling became more pronounced this morning when it was found there was nothing like the offerings which made it so easy to depress values last week. Covering of short contracts and accumulations by important financial interests gave the whole list a considerably improved tone up till noon.

During the afternoon short covering became urgent and around 2 p. m. industrial leaders like Steel Common, Baldwin, Studebaker and Corn Products, showed important gains over their recent lows. Price movements during the last hour were irregular but the whole market closed well.

The market closed higher. Closing prices included: U. S. Steel 100 5/8, up 1 3/4; Crucible 62, up 1 1/2; Republic 45 1/2, up 1 1/2; American Can 59 1/4, off 1 1/4; Studebaker 119, up 3; Chandler 61 1/4, up 2 1/4; Standard Oil of New Jersey 192, up 7; Pan American 80 7/8, up 6 7/8; Standard of California 113 1/2, up 3 3/8; Corn Products 127 3/4, up 1 1/4; 3-8; B. and O. 41 3/8, up 2 3/8; Baldwin 117 5/8, up 2 5/8; C. and N. ## TURKEY DEMAND IN DECLINES IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The market on all grades of turkeys was much weaker this morning and a very unsettled tone continued to exist. Receipts from Oregon are much heavier than were expected and this condition is largely responsible for the lower prices.

Fancy dressed turkeys were selling from 43 to 45 cents per pound and live turkeys were said not to be moving. Some dealers seem to feel that this market might recover to some extent and were holding for more settled conditions. Receipts of dressed turkeys are said to approximate 200 tons.

Many other classes of poultry were moving slowly and showing some signs of weakening. Trading in fruits and vegetables was more active because of the special holiday demand. Summer and Hubbard squash were in more demand and firm at unchanged prices. The first Imperial Valley summer squash was received and sold from $2 to $2.25 per Los Angeles lug.

Fancy local lettuce from southern and Sacramento river lettuce, sold from $2.50 to $2.75 per crate. Tomatoes were very firm, with fancy southern stock selling from $2 to $2.25 per lug. Southern cucumbers are lower and are now bringing $1.75 to $2 per crate of two and a half dozen.

Supplies light: Pineapples, plums, lemons, pears, peaches, berries, figs, melons, cabbage, peas, beans, summer squash, cauliflower, rhubarb, egg plant, tomatoes.

Supplies liberal: Bananas, apples, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, potatoes, celery, onions, spinach, lettuce.

IMPROVEMENT PLANS BEFORE COUNCIL

BARKS. GROWLS L. C. ROGERS IS BRING RAP AT POUND PLAN

Dogs will be dogs—no matter where they are housed. And they will bark and growl, when they are removed from their accustomed haunts.

This, in substance, was the plaint of residents near the corner of North Pacific avenue and Hickey street, in a protest filed last night with the city council against maintenance of the pound on one of the corners of the two streets.

Twenty-four property owners joined in the protest, in which declaration was made that dogs placed in the pound, howl, whine and bark throughout the day and night, disturbing the peace and quiet of the neighborhood.

Ordered to Stop Barks. W. W. Chandler, deputy health officer, was instructed to see that the nuisance was abated.

Roland Thompson, attorney, who lives near the point, appeared in person and voiced his protest against continuance of the pound on the corner.

He asserted that in one instance, a dead dog had been left lying near the barn of the dog catcher for at least four days before being buried.

Tells Stench. He said that the carcass was putrefying and that the stench was not conducive to an even temper.

It was disclosed that F. W. Fawcett, official dogcatcher, had moved the dog kennel from near the Santa Fe tracks about three months ago, because a barn he rented was ordered removed from Santa Fe property.

City property on West First street was suggested as a proper location for the pound.

L. C. ROGERS, MEMBER OF THE APPOINTED AS POLICE HEAD

L. C. Rogers, member of the Santa Ana police force, today was receiving the congratulations of friends upon his appointment by the city council last night as successor to Sam Jernigan, who last night tendered his resignation as city marshal.

Jernigan resigned because of his election as sheriff of Orange county, and will surrender his star December 1.

The only other applicant beside Rogers was Sid Smithwick, who has been engaged in police work in this city for many years.

The appointment is for the unexpired term. A new chief will be elected in April, unless the proposed city charter is adopted and contains provisions for making the head of the police department an appointive office.

Councilman J. W. Tubbs, police commissioner, cast the deciding vote. He was called from a party at the residence of Dr. M. A. Flood to cast his vote.

Two secret ballots were taken by Councilmen John G. Mitchell, W. A. Greenleaf and C. H. Chapman. Each resulted in a tie, Smithwick and Rogers each receiving two votes.

Believing that the council was deadlocked and would continue the tie vote indefinitely, Dale moved that the two candidates be detailed to bring Tubbs to the meeting. Tubbs threw his support to Rogers.

CLAIMS $27 FROM CITY AFTER WRECK

Councilman W. A. Greenleaf, as street commissioner, and Edward Dahl, as street superintendent, today had under consideration the justice of the claim of N. E. McQueen, of Mack's carpet cleaning establishment here, for $27.30, the amount he paid for having an automobile repaired after it had been damaged by running into a sewer hole on West Fifth street near Olive street last Friday night.

According to McQueen's statement to the city council last night, the hole was left unprotected with a warning red light.

Dahl stated that a lantern was placed at the point early in the evening and that it had been stooped.

PURSUED WIFE WITH GUN, KNIFE, CLAIM

Charged with battery, in that he assaulted his wife, Teodomo Serato, who had entered a plea of guilty before Justice J. B. Cox, today began serving a sentence of thirty days in the county jail.

Serato's wife said that he chased her with a gun and a knife.

ASSERTED POLICEMAN HELD IN FELONY HERE

Frank Olsen, said to be a Los Angeles police officer, was free under $300 bail today, awaiting the filing of information in superior court here on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Preliminary hearing was held in Justice J. B. Cox's court yesterday. Police officers who arrested the man on North Main street several weeks ago, were witnesses against him.

FORMER YORBA LINDAN SOUGHT IN GIRL CASE

Charged with a serious statutory offense, by his own cousin, a girl of 15 years, W. O. Murphy was today defendant in a complaint issued through the district attorney's office here.

Murphy, who was being sought by officers, will be arrested on information furnished by the cousin, according to authorities. The alleged offense was said to have been committed at Yorba Linda, where Murphy formerly lived.

He now resides at Long Beach.

CYCLIST BRUISED AS AUTOMOBILE HITS HIM

John Gallagher was recovering today from bruises about his right ankle, sustained about 6:30 p. m. yesterday, when the bicycle on which he was riding was struck by an automobile driven by W. O. Conklin, 618 South Broadway, at the intersection of First and French streets, according to a report at police headquarters.

Pimp? Well, Don't Be

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, or simply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.—adv.

CITY TO VOTE DECEMBER 23 ON CHARTER

Saturday, December 23, will be the date of the election to select fifteen freeholders to frame a charter for Santa Ana, unless it is found necessary later to change the date given in an ordinance which calls for the election, and which was presented to the council last night.

The instrument was given its first reading last night and took the usual course of ordinances, being referred back to the city attorney and special counsel. It will be read again next Monday evening, it was expected today.

Following its adoption it will be necessary to circulate a petition for nominating a group of men from which to select fifteen to work out the charter. It is not anticipated that more than fifteen names will be submitted. In all probability the list of freeholders will be prepared by the civic affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, it was stated.

Telling the World About the Ruckstall Axle By Advertising

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 22.—Somebody said "advertising is telling people about your product." The Ruckstall Sales and Manufacturing company, manufacturers of the Ruckstall two-speed axle for Fords, wish to correct this by saying "it is telling the world," for strange as it may seem to those unfamiliar with the sales power of advertising, this is what is happening as a result of a Ruckstall advertising campaign on the Pacific coast. "It's as good as a lesson in geography to sit in and open up the mail received by this company," said L. T. Abadie, secretary of the Ruckstall Sales and Manufacturing company of Berkeley, California. "We get inquiries and orders from parts of the globe we have never heard of before, which goes to show that the life of a newspaper is longer than a day, because these orders and inquiries, coming from far away corners of the globe, refer to our newspaper advertisements. It further goes to prove that the Ford car is truly universal, and that Ford owners the world over are now alive to the wonderful improvement the Ruckstall Two-Speed Axle will give their cars."

PAVE FAIRVIEW AVE.. LIGHT W. 4TH, AIM

Adoption of a resolution instructing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for an ornamental lighting system on West Fourth street, from Ross to Artesia, and presentation of a petition asking that Fairview avenue, from Main to Flower streets, be improved with a two-coat, six-inch asphaltic concrete pavement, were two features of a public improvement character that came before the city council last night.

A petition for the lighting system was filed several weeks ago. It bore the signatures of the owners of approximately 78 per cent of the frontage in the district.

The petitioners on Fairview avenue urged that proceedings be expedited so that construction of the improvement might begin not later than April 1. The work is to be done under the 1911 improvement act. The petition was referred to the city engineer for checking.

Paving Long Considered. Paving of Fairview avenue for the purpose of supplying a storm water drain from the south part of the city to Bristol street long has been agitated by the present city council and preceding boards. The voluntary action of residents will save the council from forcing paving on the street.

Tentative plans of H. C. Basney for creating a subdivision on West Fifth street, west of Fairview avenue, were approved.

Plans for supplying 800 feet of cast iron pipe for the joint outfall sewer were received from the San Francisco Steel Products company and the United States Cast Iron and Foundry company, of San Francisco, and were referred to the city engineers of the cities that are joining in the building program.

Plans Service Station. Emmett Tibbets was given permission to locate service station and used car market at the northwest corner of Birch and Fifth streets.

Application of I. J. Owen for permission to install four ornamental lights on his tract on North Main street, to maintain the system for one year, was granted, on condition that the lamps correspond to those in use on North Main street.

Permission was granted to the Pacific Electric Land company to install a 550-gallon gasoline tank at 510 East Third street; to Dick Cribaro for installing a 290-gallon gasoline tank in his new garage at 308 East Third street, and to the J. G. Robertson company to install an electric sign for Ward Sutton at 415 West Fourth street.

Action on the request of the library board for advice as to whether it should sign a petition for an ornamental lighting system on West Fifth street was deferred until the next meeting.

Referred to Engineer. Petition for paving East Myrtle street, from Orange avenue to Halladay street, with five-inch concrete pavement, was referred to the city engineer.

A deed was accepted from Albert F. Bowe for a twenty-five foot strip of ground required for making North Flower street full width from Tenth street to Washington avenue. Another deed for a similar strip is to be presented to the council later.

RECORD IS SET BY NUMBER OF H. S. PUPILS IN STATE

Big Strides Made In Education In California Told by Cranston

SEEK STUDY STANDARD

Experts Making Survey With View to Placing Courses On One Basis

California today has more high school pupils than any other state in the Union.

J. A. Cranston, city school superintendent, made this statement today, on the strength of a report from Will C. Wood, state school superintendent.

Cranston said: "It is a matter not so much of population as geographical proportions.

"Recognizing the fact that we have more high school pupils in California than any other state within its high schools, we must recognize also the strides this state is making promoting public school education.

"One of the most important pieces of school work now being done in the state is the standardization of the courses of study.

"Heretofore when a pupil has transferred from one school to another, he finds himself unacquainted with the work being done at the new school. His new principal has no reliable means of judging the pupil's capacity and frequently sets the pupil back.

Aim At Standard
"This is because we have not had a standard course of study in California schools. This process of standardization now is being put into effect.

"Geography, standardization by Miss Myrtle McLellan of the faculty of University of California, Southern branch, now is being taught in Santa Ana schools according to the standardization program.

"Three grammar school grades have received the attention of Miss Katherine McLoughlin of the faculty of the University of California, Southern Branch.

"When these standardization courses have been accepted by all schools, the interested parent will no longer feel that in moving his son or daughter from one school to another, he is doing him or her a grave injustice.

"A survey also is to be made of the high school system. Dr. C. E. Rugh, University of California, was appointed chairman of a committee to make the survey. The board of regents set aside a fund of $8000 to carry on the work.

Status to be Known
"By the way, my own status as city school superintendent seems to be in shape to become definite.

KANSAS CITY CHILD STIRS GREAT OPERA STARS WITH VOICE

MARION TALLEY

By NORMAN QUINN

NEA Service Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—This is the story of a little girl who sang her way from dishwater to fame. And "it contains a lesson for everybody, young or old, talented or not, who would rise from a mean position in life to a lofty one.

The little girl is Marion Talley, 15.

Two weeks ago she was just the daughter of a Kansas City railway telegrapher—a little miss who liked to sing.

Today she is acclaimed by New York as a wonder child, a marvelous songbird, a coming second Tetravini, and not far in the future she may be the world's youngest grand opera singer.

Already she has turned down one proffered contract to star in an opera because she knows her success will be all the greater if she puts in several years of hard work and study.

Tells How She Did It
Marion herself told today in an exclusive interview with NEA Service the story of her spectacular rise.

"Mother says I began to sing at the age of two," Marion said. "She'd sing little lullabies to me and immediately I'd repeat them, carrying the tune.

"Of course, I don't remember that, but I do know that ever since I can recollect, I've sung. "As I grew up I had to help mother with housework. Instead of trying to dodge dishwashing, dusting and sweeping, I did these things to the accompaniment of singing and I found that made it easy.

"In school I was called on to

FINGER PRINTS BARE PAST OF S. A. SUSPECT

County's Identificate Bureau Man Tells Secrets of Calling

"Those who think that finger print work, as a means of identification, is limited to criminal investigation, are wrong," said Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel, today, in commenting on the fact that prints of Albert Rizzo, alleged hold-up man, captured after gunplay, in Tony's cafe several days ago, showed him to have a previous record involving burglary and attempted murder.

When Rizzo was first arrested, and arraigned on charges of attempted murder, Zabel photographed him, and took finger prints. He forwarded these to the state bureau of criminal investigation at Sacramento. He received a reply, which gave the prisoner's record.

According to officials at Sacramento, Rizzo had served time in Los Angeles for a serious statutory crime. He was arrested in San Bernardino on charges of assault with intent to murder, but was acquitted.

According to Zabel, Rizzo has been variously known as Alex Aviles and Gilbert Mercus.

Tells Romance in Work
"Finger print work is not confined to such identifications as this, however," Zabel answered in reply to questions. "Just as much valuable information is secured in matters outside the world of crime as in it."

The art of identification by prints is little understood, Zabel said. There is a romance to it, which rivals fiction, the expert declared.

A finger print, Zabel showed, is an impression, on a surface, of the finger above the first joint. The ridges form designs which are impressed and later magnified and photographed.

"It is fallacious to say that the use of finger prints is a new science," Zabel declared. "History shows that the Chinese, identified documents by that means 1,000 years ago.

"From that time until 1855, when Sir E. R. Henry discovered the method now in use, the art was constantly advancing."

The expert demonstrated the method used in taking the prints of a prisoner at the county jail. A glass, covered with viscous printer's ink, is laid before him. The finger desired is then rolled in the ink, until it is covered. Then an impression is made on a sheet of white paper.

Eight Types Developed
There are eight types which may result from this procedure, it was disclosed. Of these, only four are common. A print is easily identified by the arches, loops, tented arches and whorls, which the ridges form, Zabel showed.

"One of the most frequent questions which a finger print man is asked," Zabel said, "is whether there can be duplicates. Authorities claim that there is one chance in 64,000,000 of two persons having the same print on one finger. When you take all the fingers on both hands you must multiply that by ten, making the possibility one in 640,000,000. It will be seen from that, that by all odds there are probably not two persons in the United States who could be confused in identification."

Few persons realize the scope of the finger print bureau of identification in Orange county, according to Sheriff C. E. Jackson. Every person arrested for a felony is photographed, and prints are taken. Copies are then sent to the state bureau at Sacramento, and to the federal identification bureau at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. If the man has any previous record, Orange county officials will have a complete record within a few days.

Past Record Bared
Fred Martin, alias Miller, recently sentenced to San Quentin on bad check conviction, was found to have had an indisputable record involving some of the most serious crimes possible. This information, which weighed heavily against him, it was believed, was secured from Leavenworth.

In addition to the prints which are taken from the prisoners, there are others which criminals inadvertently leave behind them. These are known as latent prints, Zabel said.

"When a burglary is committed, our first effort is to secure possible prints which the burglar may have left behind," the deputy sheriff said. "Often this proves to be the one link in the chain of circumstantial evidence against a suspect. Most criminals confess when they are confronted with their prints which they left behind."

"But to depart from the criminal phase," Zabel concluded, "I am in favor of a national bureau of finger print identification. Every year, in Orange county, there are scores of unidentified persons laid in paupers' graves, because no one knows them."

If there were a nation print bureau, where every person's prints would be filed, there would be no need for men to remain unidentified."

Alluding to the wave of bad check writing, which had reached Orange county, Zabel said that in his opinion, within a short time,

'JACKET' PLAY PLANS RUSHED BY PLAYERS

With less than two weeks remaining until the opening night at the Temple theater, Director Ernest Crozier Phillips and his cast for "The Yellow Jacket" are burning the midnight oil in rushing work to make this production the biggest success of all productions of the local players, it was stated today.

Hard luck has relentlessly pursued this production of "The Yellow Jacket" until at times it was seriously considered postponing its production until after the first of the year. But perseverance and determination of the players won out against what at first appeared to be unsurmountable difficulties.

"The Yellow Jacket" is the biggest thing yet attempted by the Santa Ana Community players, it was declared. This play created such a success in New York City that after it had played successfully for two years, it was revived there by Mr. and Mrs. Coburn three years later with great success, playing for nearly a year at the Liberty theater.

The Pasadena Community players have produced it at two different times, each time with signal success. It was declared likely that the local players would give a more finished production than was given at Pasadena. Several of the Santa Ana Community players who traveled to Pasadena last year to view the play there made this prophecy.

The cast of "The Yellow Jacket" numbers twenty-six in all and it was said to have been difficult to find the exact types needed. Costumes used in the production are to be extremely valuable as some rare Chinese jewels, robes and head-dresses are to be loaned for the occasion.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—Gasoline consumption for the calendar year of 1923 will be 5,670,000,000 gallons, it is estimated by the American Petroleum Institute. The figure is arrived at by an estimate showing that there will be 13,500,000 gasoline engines in use in 1923, each using an average of 420 gallons of gasoline.

At the present rate of refining methods—one barrel of gasoline secured from each four barrels of crude—the total petroleum requirements of crude oil will be 540,000,000 barrels.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—Separation of the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific in ownership and operation is essential to the proper development of the Rocky Mountain territory, said Frank W. Mondell, Wyoming, majority floor leader in the lower house, appearing before the interstate commerce commission.

Mondell said that he appeared in the interests of the larger development and future of the state and was not advised as to existing rates and shipping service involved in the controversy.

"The national interest demands that the Central Pacific and the Union Pacific, extending with its connections from the great lakes to the Pacific ocean, shall be maintained at the highest possible standard of efficiency, capable of rendering the largest and best possible service to the public," said Mondell.

"There can be no difference of opinion over every essential portion of this line that is primarily and wholly interested in utilizing it to the very greatest extent and in the best possible fashion."

"With the Central Pacific under management and control wholeheartedly favorable to the utilization and development of the transcontinental system of which it was intended to be and is a part, the service now rendered in and to Wyoming would be extended, enlarged and improved."

"I cannot too earnestly urge friendly and favorable management and operation of all parts of this great central artery of commerce to the end that it may furnish the best possible service. Such management and operation cannot in the nature of the case be afforded by the Southern Pacific or by those primarily interested in the operation of the Southern Pacific lines."

ENIGMA MAN AIRS GRUDGE AGAINST MEXICANS; SAYS QUARREL BACK OF MURDER

"I told that Mexican that if there was to be any shooting, I was going to do it!"

Slowly, in the faltering, dazed manner which has characterized his actions since his arrest Saturday night for the murder of Jose Ayoyua, 25, on East Fourth street, B. J. Marcoss, from the depths of the solitary cell at the county jail, told The Register his story.

It was a meagre one, bereft of all details, but it assigned the only motive so far advanced for one of the most sensational and mysterious murders in Orange county.

It was after more than an hour of persistent questioning during which Marcoss steadily refused to break his silence, except for an occasional grunt, or a characteristic shrug of the shoulders, that he finally recited the story of a quarrel with an unidentified Mexican, aged 25 years, a fellow member of the highway construction gang at San Juan Capistrano—of the threat by the Mexican to shoot him—and, up to a certain point, of the events leading to the tragedy. Saturday night.

Harbored Grudge.
Told almost in monosyllables, the story was one of a grudge harbored, brooded over, until it became a hatred for all members of the race.

"This Mexican and his wife, who lived near me at Capistrano, soiled my tent last week," the prisoner faltered. "I remonstrated with him. We had words."

"Saturday noon he came into my tent. We quarreled. He threatened to shoot me."

"If there is any shooting to be done, I'll do it," I told him. Here was engendered, according to the alleged killer, a hatred for this Mexican, which ultimately resulted in the alleged slaying of Jose Ayoyua.

"I rode in to San Juan Capistrano in an automobile," Marcoss continued, after a pause, during which he seemed to be struggling to call to mind the vision of happenings Saturday. "There I boarded a train, and came to Santa Ana."

Mind Is Hazy
Concerning events leading to the alleged shooting, Marcoss was hazy in his recollection. He was not sure how he got from the depot to East Fourth street, where witnesses say he purchased a new revolver, and emerging into the street, shot the first man he came upon. He was sure, however, that he didn't pay more than $15 for the gun.

"Did you mistake Ayoyua for the Mexican with whom you had the quarrel at San Juan Capistrano?" the reporter queried.

"They all look alike!" was the mumbled answer.

Never had the words "enigma man" been more truly applied than in this case. As he stood with his face in the opening in the grating of the cell, his hands in the pockets of his overalls, his face unshaven, his eyes furtive, his heavy lips sagging, Marcoss could be pictured for the killer they say he is.

Excellent Vocabulary
But when he talked, which was infrequently, he displayed that same startling vocabulary which had aroused the interest of spectators in the courtroom of Justice J. B. Cox yesterday morning when he was arraigned.

With a voice soft and gentle, he strove, apparently, to recall a past which was hidden in a fog of mental uncertainty.

"John." The - Register man asked, "You don't talk like a day laborer. You seem to have an education. You haven't always been working with a pick and shovel. What is the explanation of all this?"

There came that far-away look in the accused man's eyes, as his lips trembling, he nervously seemed to be searching his mind for details not quite available.

"No, I haven't always—been like this. Somewhere—sometime—I was educated."

"You see, I've travelled around a great deal. I've been in many states of the union, and—sometime—once, I was in South America. I think I was born there."

Then for the fifth time since the

Will Decorate Streets for Realty Meet

Decorations of streets here and the presence of the Long Beach municipal band on the opening day were new features that J. C. Wallace, secretary of the Santa Ana Realty board, announced today, in connection with the annual convention of the California Real Estate association opening in Santa Ana Thursday of next week.

The delegates from Long Beach will bring the band with them and the musical organization will be at the disposal of the local committee during the day, Wallace stated. Fifty machines will come from the beach city, it was stated.

Wallace last night obtained from the city council permission to string banners and decorate certain portions of Main, Fourth and Broadway. The contract for decorating has been awarded to the Art Fountain Exposition company of Los Angeles. Main street will be decorated from Sixth street to Second street; Fourth street from Birch street to Spurgeon street, and Broadway, from Fourth street to St. Ann's Inn.

Convention headquarters will be at the Inn and the sessions will be held at the Legion home on Birch street.

The home town contest Thursday evening of next week will be held at the Temple theater instead of at the Yost theater, Wallace announced.

Triumphs of M. Jonquelle

THE WOMAN ON THE TERRACE
Monsieur Jonquelle, the Prefect of Police of Paris, was a moment late.

An angry voice reached him at the turn of the path. It was a tense, low, menacing voice. The words were not clear, but the intent in the voice was unmistakable. For a mere fraction of time he remained motionless as in some indecision; then he went forward swiftly.

It was evening. The soft colors of a sort of twilight day were on the Mediterranean. The many-colored city of Nice was lying below the mountain of olive trees and the tropical gardens of the Villa of Cibiez. The whole scene was from a country of the fairy; the romantic frontier of some kingdom of wonder legend.

There were two persons on the long terrace of the villa when Monsieur Jonquelle approached. The villa was small and exquisite—a sort of jewel-box hidden in a garden of tropical luxuriance, inclosed by a tile border.

The villa was rose-color. The tiles of the terrace and the border of the high wall were also rose-color. It was a dainty and sensuous bit of the world, as though raised by some enchantment out of the baked earth of Arabia.

Monsieur Jonquelle interrupted a tragic moment.

A woman sat in a chair midway of this terrace. It was one of those beautiful invalid-chairs made for the out-of-doors by that Italian genius which seeks always to add beauty to the decorative aspect of a garden.

The chair was white. The gown of the woman in it was blue, it looked black in the soft evening light and against the rose-colored villa and the white chair.

The woman did not move. Her small, shapely head, as from fatigue, rested against the high back of the chair. It was crowned with a great weight of hair, as yellow and as heavy as gold, built up into a wonderful coiffure that resembled in its vague outlines the helmet of Minerva. Her hands and her elbows lay on the arms of her chair.

Beside her, a step beyond, the man who had arrived a moment before Monsieur Jonquelle stood in an attitude of menace. The visible personality of the man was puzzling. That he was an American one could instantly see. But one could not so easily determine his status or his habits of life.

He had some of the physical characteristics, some of the tricks of dress of one engaged in an artistic vocation; some of the swift, accurate, precise gestures of one skilled in the plastic arts. But there was a vigor and determination about the man that one is not accustomed to find in a mere artist—an element of ruthless decision and of swift acts as of one accustomed to peril in his trade.

The attitude of the man and the voice that had reached Monsieur Jonquelle at the turn of the path were unmistakable in their menace. But the woman did not move. Neither the sudden appearance of the man, nor his words, nor his menacing gesture had in any respect disturbed her equanimity.

The scene changed as at the snap of invisible fingers. And Monsieur Jonquelle came up on the terrace. The man fell into the posture of one at ease before an interrupting visitor, and the woman looked up languidly as though undisturbed, as though no human drama, however tragic, could disturb her; as though she were forever beyond the stimulus of any human emotion.

It was clear that the man had no knowledge of Monsieur Jonquelle, but to the woman he was evidently a familiar figure. His appearance must have been an immense surprise to her, as the appearance of the man beyond her had been, but there was no evidence of it in her voice.

She did not rise. But she spoke softly.
"You do me a conspicuous honor," she said. "You will have been very much concerned about me to search me out here."

Then she presented the man beyond her.
"Martin Dillard," she said, "an American—Monsieur Jonquelle."

The Frenchman and also the woman, one thought, observed the American closely to note any recognition of either the name or the appearance of the new arrival.

"I am not sure," she said, "but I am sure, precisely the reason for my flight here and your cause of anger against me."

She turned again toward the Frenchman.
"Is it not so, Monsieur?"

The American had a strange, sullen, puzzled expression. But Monsieur Jonquelle laughed.
"Alas!" he said, "it is the disaster of my acquaintances with which I seem always to be concerned, and unhappily, their affairs are usually known to me."

He bowed slightly to the American.
"If Monsieur will permit," he said, "I shall be charmed to verify Madame's prediction. Monsieur has followed to inquire why the house in the Faubourg St. Germain in the old quarter of Paris, happened to burn down."

The American moved, as in anger, abruptly in his chair.
"Yes," he said, "that is precisely what I wanted to know."

Monsieur Jonquelle rose. He took a cigarette from his pocket. It was of platinum exquisitely traced with a complicated arabesque. He opened it and presented it to the woman in the chair. She declined.

"It is denied me," she said, "as all things are now denied me."

The American also refused, and Monsieur Jonquelle returned with his cigarette to the chair on the border of the terrace.

"I, also," he said, speaking as he went about the lighting of the cigarette, "as what Madame has so courteously called 'an old acquaintance,' am interested to know why this house at the corner of the Rue de St. Pere on the Faubourg St. Germain has burned to the ground."

"It will be necessary to make some explanation to the authorities of Paris. They will be curious about it. And as this old acquaintance of Madame, it has seemed to me that I ought to obtain and take some measures to present an explanation to the authorities in Paris."

He continued to speak, in the slow business of lighting his cigarette. "There is no question of insurance, nor the right of any property-owner in the matter. Monsieur Martin Dillard owned this house by purchase some months ago. He carried no insurance on it. It was stored only with his own property and used only by himself with the charming assistance of Madame."

"There was not even a servant about. The doors entering the house were all fitted with a special lock, a complicated American lock with two keys, one for Monsieur and the duplicate for Madame. The windows were securely closed with heavy shutters. The house was wholly inaccessible to any but these two persons, and it was the exclusive property of Monsieur. If it had not burned, we should not have been concerned about it. Mysterious romances of the heart do not provoke an inquiry in Paris."

"It is the only capital of pleasure where the heart is free; but the city authorities are concerned with fires. When the flame emerges from the heart, Paris is disturbed, and when it reduces to ashes an ancient house on the Faubourg St. Germain, some explanation must be given."

He paused again. He had not gotten the cigarette lighted. And he set down. "Madame has correctly expressed it. I am an old acquaintance, and I am more than that; I am an old acquaintance who is very much interested to get Madame's explanation before the authorities in Paris as soon as I can manage it. Her flight after the fire seemed to be unwise. Even I had very considerable difficulty to find her."

The American spoke abruptly.
"You seem very much interested in 'Casque d'Or.'"

Jonquelle's voice was in a sort of drawl.
"Casque d'Or," he said. "The expression is extremely happy. Madame's golden head used to be the wonder of Paris when she came up with it like a Minerva through the fluid floor of Paris. Ah! yes, I am very interested—I have been always interested, as an old, a very old acquaintance. And I am interested again, more, perhaps, than Monsieur can imagine."

The American spoke again abruptly.
"You seem to know all about 'Casque d'Or.'"

Again Monsieur Jonquelle drawled his answer.
"Ah! yes," he said, "from her golden head to the blue pigeon delicately outlined on her hand finger—every detail of Madame has been of interest to me—has been, I may say, of anxiety to me. And now I am concerned about the explanation for this fire."

Another installment of "The Woman on the Terrace" will appear in our next issue.

'Y' GYM CLASS OF 75 OR 100 NEW ROOMS

That a gymnasium class of seventy-five or 100 business men can be organized in this city, was the consensus of a score of men who met at the Y. M. C. A. rooms here last night.

Each man declared that he could interest five or six men in the class. Another meeting will be held Monday night, when those present last night will report, and when it is expected that a class of between 75 or 100 men will be organized. There will thus be sufficient assurance of attendance to make certain the best results, according to Ralph Smedley, Y. M. C. A. building secretary.

In the meantime, steps will be taken to complete arrangements for the erection of a temporary building in connection with the Y playgrounds on the northwest corner of Church and Sycamore streets. Shower baths and lockers will be installed.

Smedley pointed out that it is intended to have the cost of this work, insofar as it is of a temporary nature, covered by fees paid by too much driving around in a car. An annual fee of $10 was decided on. It is expected much of the work will be done by members of the gymnasium class, as a sort of a good time together, thus cutting the costs to a low figure.

"Every man needs exercise and recreation," said F. C. Blauer, chairman of the committee in charge of the project. "Too little outdoor exercise and recreation, and too much driving around in a car, will break down the strongest constitution. Every man ought to play and yell and perspire, forget his dignity and act like a boy at least two or three times a week. That is what we propose to do when we get our playground into action."

CATTLEMEN OF COUNTY TO MEET

charge. Meetings similar to the one to be held here are to be held in every county, the committee said.

The California Cattlemen's association takes credit for many of the benefits acquired by livestock men during 1922. The association calls attention to a few of these, such as securing a 10 per cent reduction in the assessed valuation of cattle, affecting $50,000 head of cattle; division in the payment of grazing fees on national forests; a 40 per cent reduction in grazing fees on railroad lands.

The association also speaks of the effectiveness of the two meat councils held in this state in advertising and increasing the consumption of beef.

The association also maintains a news service, providing its members with a weekly report, quoting accurate information regarding market conditions; a shipping service to assist members; an exchange service to assist in buying and selling feed, stockers and feeder cattle.

ASK BUREAU AS TO GROUNDS FOR FAIR

Where should the permanent grounds for the Orange county fair be located?

The question was directed today to the Orange county farm bureau. It was asked by the executive committee of the Orange County Fair association as the result of a meeting of the executive committee at the Chamber of Commerce here late yesterday.

Recognizing that the farm bureau put on a big portion of the last fair, the directors are anxious that the bureau have an opportunity to make a recommendation.

Yesterday the site committee of the executive committee reported facts and figures concerning three possible locations. This report made no effort at an expression of opinion.

The committee said that three sites had been proposed: First, sixty-three acres at the southwest corner of Santa Ana, for $68,000; second, sixty acres on the state highway north of what is known as the log cabin, between the county hospital and Anaheim, for $130,000, with $30,000 cash down; third, sixty acres anywhere in West Orange east of the Santa Ana river, at an estimated cost of possibly $180,000, depending on what tract might be selected.

The farm bureau directors' meeting, at which the matter is to be discussed, is to be held December 7.

TROUBLE BUNCHES UP FOR OIL DEPOT MAN

Trouble came in bunches for H. R. Metz, proprietor of a filling station near Anaheim.

Last week he was arrested on the complaint of J. L. Jensen, charging that he wrote a worthless check. He was held in jail in lieu of bail. Today, he was taken from the jail, arraigned on charges of writing a worthless check for $7.50, on the Brea National bank, and giving it to Martin Sherman. Preliminary hearing was set for December 11 at 11 a. m., and bail was fixed at $500.

He went back to jail.

KANSAS CITY CHILD STIRS GREAT OPERA STARS WITH VOICE

sing at entertainments and festivals. Then finally I decided to sing in the church choir.

"I can never forget the first time I took my seat in the choir. The director listened to me intently and when I had sung my first hymn, he called me to sit in the first row.

"That was my turning point. From that time on my ambition to be a singer grew in me."

And now let Mrs. Charles M. Talley, Marion's mother, take up the story.

"Marion soon became church soloist. She was paid as much as a man. Her voice came to be in demand at all kinds of entertainments and she was well paid. Soon her talent caught the attention of several wealthy Kansas City men.

"At a special concert $10,000 was raised to pay for her musical education. And the Metropolitan Opera company at New York was asked to test her voice."

So Mr. and Mrs. Talley and Marion came to New York. In the great Metropolitan opera house Marion sang before Giulio Gatti-Casazza, director of the opera company, Otto Kahn, head of the board of directors and half a dozen others whose names are known all over the world.

And all pronounced Marion's voice miraculous and said that her chances of becoming a star were of the best.

Hard Study Ahead
So Marion and her mother are settling down in New York where Marion will study hard for three years under the best teachers while her father goes back to his telegraph key in Kansas City.

And the lesson?
"No matter how obscure you may be at the start, you can gain recognition if you really try," says Marion.

"I got ahead by being contented with my lot, but at the same time reaching upward and doing my utmost to develop my talent."

"That's why I wash dishes and sing instead of letting the dishes go and dreaming of fame."

"That's why I was always willing to sing anywhere and for anybody instead of considering myself above it."

"And just as I have got ahead in singing, any girl—or boy or man or woman—can get ahead in any other line."

every person would have to accompany his signature with a finger print.

"Signatures can be forged, but finger prints cannot," he said. "There are already 4,000 banks in the United States which employ this method to a limited extent. Those who think that the criminal end of the game is all that there is to it, should become acquainted with the facts. We are simply doing a small bit in a big field."

WOMAN ASKS POLICE BAR BURGLAR VISITS

Burglars made two visits to the home of Mrs. E. G. Koedel, 1319 North Broadway, during the past week, she told police. In both instances the thieves were unsuccessful.

Mrs. Koedel does not welcome intruders of that sort, however, she told authorities, and asked that an officer be detailed to prevent further visits.

Watch the children's first teeth

Many parents erroneously believe that children's first teeth need little or no attention because they are to be replaced by the second teeth. The truth is, as every dentist knows, that the principal cause of crooked teeth in grown persons is failure on the part of parents to have the infant teeth extracted as soon as the second teeth are ready to grow out.

No less important is the care of the mouth and gums during childhood. Children's teeth should be brushed twice daily and with particular thoroughness at night to keep the mouth hygienically clean and safe against the infections that lead to decay of the teeth and pyorrhea.

For this purpose there is no other preparation equal to DENTOMEL, the lemon juice dentifrice—a natural germicide and disinfectant so delightful to the taste that children enjoy using it.

Take home a bottle and try it. Make your own comparisons, then if not perfectly satisfied with the results obtained, your money will be refunded by the druggist from whom you purchased it.

interview began Marcos requested a Sunday newspaper. Thinking that perhaps he desired to see the account of the murder, which police say he committed, a clipping was offered him.

"No," he answered, "I don't care what they say about me. I want to read about international affairs—about Europe and Washington."

Expresses Affection
Concerning his home and relatives, Marcos was more than ordinarily hazy. He had parents living—a mother for whom he expressed affection—but he was not sure where they lived. A year had passed since he had seen them. He thought they lived at 1236 South Flower street, Los Angeles, but he was not sure.

"I have been married," came the words, after a struggle. "I have a wife and children—but I have lost track of them. I don't know where they are now."

Then he stopped talking. The light which had come into his face at rare intervals during the interview, died. The old slouch returned, the mumbling was resumed.

"Maybe my memory will pick up better later," he said. Then he spoke again.

"Don't forget to get that Sunday newspaper for me," were his parting words.

MAZOLA Is Packed Only In SANITARY SEALED TINS never in bottles—and why

The next important thing to good food is pure food. To keep food pure and wholesome it has to be packed properly. This is especially true of a vegetable oil. For oil, like butter, is easily contaminated.

This is why intelligent housewives always prefer Mazola to ordinary oils, put up in bottles, or filled from barrels. Many people do not know that bottled oil, when exposed to light or to the sun's rays, may deteriorate in various ways.

Mazola is packed only in sealed, sanitary, full-measure tins. It comes direct from the producers to you—untouched by human hands. It is never sold loose, or in re-fillable glass bottles.

You will be delighted with Mazola, whether for cooking or shortening, or as a perfectly delicious salad oil that blends wonderfully with your other salad ingredients.

Remember, you do not have to keep Mazola in the ice-box, even in the hottest weather. It never becomes rancid.

34,596 Beans In the Jar--Official Count

Great Interest Is Aroused In Contest

There were approximately 19,000 guesses made during the Grand Central Market contest which covered a period of four weeks. The winner, guessing 34,567, came within 29 of the correct number.

There were a great variety of guesses given as to the number of beans in the glass jar. The highest was 18,000,000,000 (count it!), the lowest was one and eight ninths. Other guesses were turned in all the way from "all together too many" to "enough," and last, but by no means least, was a love note, signed "V." Merchants (and their wives) were today debating over the fact as to whom the note was intended, as we go to press the mystery has not been solved.

One market statistician gave an example that will clearly illustrate, to those who haven't a mathematical turn of mind, the great number of guessing tickets turned in. Viz: If each ticket was a mile in length the total number laid end to end would make a path so long that it would require three years, ten months and four days for a comparatively healthy adult to walk the distance. Legal holidays, Chinese New Years, and 30 minutes for lunch being counted out on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Prize winners were notified by mail Monday morning. Several have already called for prizes from the different merchants. The barber is wondering if the lady who won the haircut, and shave will take a hair "bob." He expressed himself that if she didn't desire one and her husband didn't need a shave he would take no means to force the shave upon her.

LIST OF FIRST TEN PRIZE WINNERS

1. Silverware, $13.50, Helen Decher, 410 S. Bdwy.
2. $10 in gold, C. W. Case, 310 S. Garnsey.
3. Silverware, $5.50, H. J. Gores, 921 W. 1st.
4. $5 in gold, John W. Norton, 301 W. 1st.
5. $5 in gold, Mrs. Jno. Cleary, Tustin.
6. "B" Battery, $5.00, Jas. Trew, 943 Birch St.
7. Electric Iron, $5, L. A. Whitaker, 126 N. Lyons.
8. Talking Doll, $4.50, Leon W. Landerbach, 1805 Spurgeon.
9. Spring Duck, $4.00, K. Norton, 4th and Birch.
10. 3 Player Rolls, $3.75, H. J. Gores, 921 W. 1st.

ALL PRIZE WINNERS WILL BE NOTIFIED BY MAIL

MANAGER PURINTON SAYS: "Every merchant in the market joins with me in voicing our appreciation of the wonderful patronage received here since the market first opened. More and more people are coming to realize that this is 'their most popular trading center'."

Many Valuable Prizes Given Away.

The winner of the first prize given in the Guessing Contest is fortunate in more ways than one. At no other time in the year would silverware come in so handy—just in time for the Thanksgiving Dinner. But at that, "gold" and good things to eat come in mighty handy during this, and any other time or season.

Market Manager F. H. Purinton, in speaking today of the contest and market in general, went on to say: "We know that the guessing contest has aroused a certain amount of interest among the people of this section. It has brought some new business. But I am certain that the great number of people who trade at the market do so because of the many advantages already afforded them here for their convenience and comfort. Many lines grouped under one roof, as they are, it is an easy matter to purchase a great variety of articles and at the same time do business with a specialist in his particular line—a man who can save you time and money."

Low overhead expenses permit the merchants to sell at the lowest possible figure, the stocks being fresh and clean and of highest quality. The white enamel finish also lends an appearance of cleanliness.

The market is run after the plan of the large city markets and gives the shopper the ideal method of merchandise selection. Another feature is the free parking space. Machines may be left here for an hour or a day, giving everyone all the time they wish in which to do their shopping.

Elk's Comedy Here Brilliant Success

BY ELEANOR ELLIOTT

Ten Thousand Dollars — and worth every cent of the money!

Such was the assurance given the Elks following the initial performance last night at the Yost theater of their 1922 musical comedy, which will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

For several years past, Santa Ana lodge, No. 794, B. P. O. E. has presented a similar entertainment, but opinions freely expressed last night and today were that this year's offering far exceeded anything previously attempted.

Tuneful songs, lovely girls, clever acting, excellent directing and a comedy of clever lines combined to make a finished performance from the overture by the Elks' augmented orchestra to the finale, "The Girl of My Dreams Revue."

Carry Comedy Action

Action of the comedy itself was carried by David Todd Gillmor as

Van Dusen, a stock speculator;

C. J. McNaughton as E. M. Ralston, whose attempted manipulations of the stock market did almost as much damage as his harmless flirtation with Mabel—played by Miss Zola Powelson; Harry D.

Bladen as the unctuous-voiced Bishop

Doran, a mere child in business matters; "Dizzy" Smith as Dick

Donnelly, a stock salesman; "Stormy" Gordon in the masculine lead of Bob Bennett; Ruby Brax-well Bush, satisfyingly lovely as

Mrs. Ralston; Edith Stangle as

Ethel, the society bud, and Miss

Lucille Longmire as Gwen Ralston, ingenue.

Makes Bet on Truth

The sketchy little plot hung up on Bob's efforts to double $10,000 by betting that amount that he could tell the absolute truth for twenty-four hours.

Business, homes and his own happiness with Gwen are almost wrecked, but other than that, we will not tell you, for the whole amusing farce must be seen to be appreciated.

Last night's audience was a highly appreciative one and the situations and clever sallies brought roars of laughter. The appreciation must have reached the players, for their response was marked.

Indeed it is seldom that a first night goes so smoothly. But there was no apparent break, and in addition to being letter perfect, each player brought a pronounced air of naturalness to his part.

Men Adapted To Parts

It seemed that each of the four masculine roles was particularly well adapted to its player. Mc-

Naughton was excellent in his part,

as is not always the case with the directing genius of a play. Gillmor, who was ever in evidence, brought a complete understanding of the part to his performance, while Smith as Dick Donnelly was second only to the favorite of Elk audiences, Stormy Gordon. Gordon "out-stormed Stormy" if such a thing were possible.

Miss Stangle handled a minor but difficult role very pleasingly, while Mrs. Bush gave full value to the more dignified and matronly role of Mrs. Ralston.

Honors seemed evenly divided between Miss Zola Powelson and Miss Longmire, the two parts being so dissimilar that each shone in contrast with the other. Miss Longmire has a number of successes to her credit, having appeared in high school and Community players' productions. Her work is always consistently good and her stage presence is a delight.

Shows Marked Ability

Miss Powelson showed marked ability in character delineation and was all that one pictures a slangy, independent little chorus girl to be.

One of the pleasantest of the interpreted numbers was the piano and singing act by "Stormy" and

"Dizzy"—otherwise W. R. Gordon and D. Z. Smith. With Gordon at the piano, Smith sang "Mother

Macree" and "Nobody Lied" and was recalled again and again.

Other soloists were Mrs. Russell

Johnson, Robert Davis and A. J.

Garroway, and their songs were unusually pleasing while the choruses were a delight to the eye. In

Mrs. Johnson's medley of popular airs the pony ballet first appeared, and the lovely "Old Fashioned Girls' Revue," with Mr. Davies' solo, formed a demure background for

Miss Rose Ruplinger in hoopskirts and lace pantalets and dainty little Elizabeth Roehm in a charming dance, "A Young Man's Fancy" from the Music Box Revue.

Gives Dance Numbers

Miss Gwendolyn Tubbs presented

two appreciated dance numbers,

"Humoresque" and "Black Eyed

Blues". In the final revue, "The Girl of My Dreams," with A. J.

Garroway as soloist, the gowns worn by the ballet chorus were unusually beautiful against the background offered by the Elks'

male chorus, members of which were attired in blue coats and white flannel trousers.

Here Are Folks in Chorus

Chorus girls and men were the stance Vegeley, Jennie Nelson,

abelle Wylie, Anna-Grace McElree, art and Jack Brown, and in the dream revue; Mrs. Hazel Hargett, Bladen, Mrs. Bebe Brown, the Misses Lois Leecraft, Evelyn Babbitt and Ruth Robertson.

Candy Men Make Hit

The special surprise feature of the evening was the candy sale by the Mexican Fun Brigade. The gallant caballeros, whose broad sombreros and highly ornamented velvet costumes were reminiscent of the days of the dons, were

Messrs. C. W. Hutchings, Win

"THE PRISONER OF ZENDA"

IS INGRAM TRIUMPH.

Once in a great while there comes a motion picture which can be hailed as almost perfect. Such a picture is the Rex Ingram production for Metro of Anthony Hope's famous story "The Prisoner of Zenda," now showing at the Princess theater.

No one who has thrilled to the call of romance should fail to see this extraordinary picture which is packed full of action. Intrigue and devilish plotting is matched against heroic endeavor and ultimate victory for the loyal adherents of the ruler of the little Kingdom of Ruritania. The settings are magnificent. The coronation, the processions, the royal ball are massive, beautiful and impressive.

Here is sword play, intrigue, danger, plots, beauty, action and charm.

ELECTION EXTRA ISSUED IN

CHARLES RAY FILM.

Their faces and clothing stained with printer's ink, two figures sat on a bench in the composing room of the Citrona Citizen. Both were dozing, sleepy and fatigued.

One of them was Steve Stanton, owner and editor of the paper. The other was Marie Clements, daughter of the society leader of Citrona. On each side of them were huge stacks of papers fresh from the press.

It had been the most exciting day in the history of Citrona, and of

Steve and Marie. That morning

they had been kidnapped and held captive in a musty warehouse; had escaped and found that the forms for the day's edition of the Citizen had been wrecked by the rival newspaper. But by Herculean efforts they had gotten out another issue just in time to carry the election which meant so much to Citrona.

This is one of the interesting episodes of "Smudge," starring Charles Ray and now showing at the West End theater. Ora Carew is cast as Marie and others in the cast are Lloyd Bacon, Ralph McCollough, Charles K. French, Blanche Rose, J. P. Lockney and Frances Oberle. The story was written by Rob Wagner, noted Saturday Evening Post author.

"THE WOMAN HE LOVED"

OPENS AT TEMPLE.

Marcia Manon, favorite among intelligent followers of the screen, plays what is for her an unusual role in "The Woman He Loved," which comes to the Temple theater tonight, Wednesday and Thursday.

Hitherto associated with society characters of the most ornate description such as she played in Cecil De Mille's "Old Wives for New," Miss Manon proves her versatility by playing a Russian peasant in the new picture. However, as might be expected of so unusual a type, her peasant is by no means a tiller of the soil but a sophisticated woman who plainly is destined for pleasanter living than that afforded by an humble home in Russia.

This promise is borne out when she comes to America with her husband and baby and quickly adapts herself to the ways of the new country, particularly its sartorial ways. But she does not prove so successful in reading character and in consequence listens to a man unworthy to take the place of her husband, who loves her. What happens to the erring wife proves to be a story of uncommon interest for it has no points of resemblance to the usual romance unfolded on the screen. Because it is out of the ordinary, Marcia Manon is at her best in it.

THE REGISTER'S BIRTHDAY

Today The Register starts upon its eighteenth year of publication.
On this date, in 1905, the first issue of The Register was printed in an office in the Home Telephone building, at the northeast corner of French and East Fourth Street.
It was a very different Register than was printed yesterday, with its three sections and a total of eighteen pages—different from any Register printed during the first several years of The Register's history.
It was a better Register than was printed a year ago.
It is our aim and ambition to make each year's Register a bigger and better Register than its predecessor.
Throughout the seventeen years, not a year has gone by without material progress being achieved in Register history.
The location was changed within a year after the paper was started, from the Home Telephone building to the Odd Fellows building on Main street, and a few years later to The Register building at Third and Sycamore. The plant has grown—how it has grown! When we look back on the first derelict press that The Register had, we wonder how we ever lived through it. We printed four pages of the paper, then turned the sheet over and printed the other side, then ran the big sheet through a hand-fold folder that folded and cut the paper. The old press had an unexplainable habit of getting out of whack so that it jumped around on the floor causing baby earthquakes in its vicinity.
Within the past year, The Register has added a new linotype to its equipment, which gives us seven linotypes and a monotype. Within that year, too, our circulation has grown remarkably and The Register is today more certainly and completely a county newspaper than it ever was before.
Our ambition is to give to the people of Orange county a live, reliable, thorough, clean newspaper. We have established an ideal of service that has broadened and become stabilized as time has passed. Our policies in relation to news and advertising and in relation to our duty as a newspaper to the public long since became permanent policies, and it is the daily effort of every department of The Register to live up to those ideals and policies.
Today we are looking forward to a busy year. We are expecting to see Santa Ana and every other community in Orange county grow and prosper. We are counting upon making The Register a bigger and better Register this year than it has ever been. Through the co-operation of those who look upon the Register as a permanent, worth while institution, and through the friendliness of those who believe that The Register is sincerely aiming to develop its facilities for service as rapidly as conditions will allow—and oftentimes more rapidly than conditions really warrant—we firmly believe that the eighteenth year of our publication will be and remain as The Register's banner year until the nineteenth year outstrips the eighteenth year.

SHOULD REQUIRE PERMIT

If the state law makes it necessary that a man get a permit from a sheriff or city marshal before he can carry a revolver, why do we allow revolvers to be sold without a permit?
Of course, there is no answer. Our position in that relation is inconsistent.

The law prohibits the carrying of a concealed weapon unless the person who carries it has a permit so to do. The offense is not in the possession of the firearm, but in having it concealed upon one's person.

The sale of a revolver in nearly every instance carries with it an immediate infraction of the law. Even if the purchaser intends to keep it at his home, loaded and under his pillow, or to take with him only when he goes on a camping trip, the chances are that he conceals it in his pocket in order to get it home from the store.

Santa Ana has just had an unfortunate shooting affair. The man who did the shooting could not have received a permit for purchasing a revolver had it been necessary for him to get a permit. That is, had a permit been required the shooting would not have occurred.

ANOTHER SIGNBOARD

Paint the names of towns in large letters on roofs of railroad stations, so aviators will know what they are passing over. This is recommended by Secretary Denby in a letter to Interstate Commerce Commission.

It is a new kind of signboard. We now move in three dimensions. Before the flying machine we were chained largely to two dimensions, except when climbing hills and stairs.

How long until we master the fourth dimension?

TRANSPORTATION FIGURES

A small steamship corporation on the Great Lakes owns three freighters. In one month these boats are idle long enough to cost the owners $43,000 in overhead charges.

The idleness was compulsory, due to railroad car shortage. The boats were unable to get cars to haul away their cargo.

No matter what business problem you study, you soon find it connecting with the greatest of national economic problems, transportation.

MOST HEALTHFUL PLACE

The secret of health and long life is discovered, and also the place where it is exemplified. Modern Ponce de Leon should seek it in the South Atlantic, in the tiny island of Tristan de Cunha.

According to Dr. Macklin, member of the Shackleton expedition, which stopped there, the island is a veritable Fountain of Youth. There are only about 100 people living there, descendants of shipwrecked mariners, but they seem never to die. Centenarians are common, and people old in years look, act and feel young.

It isn't all climate, either. Dr. Macklin attributes their longevity chiefly to these factors: "Lack of alcohol and tobacco, absence of epidemic diseases, the hardy mode of life in the fresh air and the fact that their limited food supply compels them to eat sparingly." Also absence of the speed and strain of our modern civilization. They have virtually no contact with the world.

Altogether, it doesn't seem likely that excursions will be run to Tristan da Cunha. Most people don't care to purchase long life at such a price. Better, perhaps, 40 years of modern life, crowded with experience and progress, than a century of simple, unvaried existence remote from the rest of mankind.

A JUNIOR SAFETY CODE

The child who goes to school gets instruction in safety. The child who is too young to go to school but still is big enough to play in the yard or on the sidewalk should have his training at home. Many of these little ones are numbered among traffic accidents right along.

Here are four simple rules which may be taught the youngest toddler:

Never run off the sidewalk or out into the street after a ball; slow up and look.

Hitching behind wagons or automobiles is dangerous; stop it.

Play on the sidewalk, in a lot, playground or yard; not in the street.

A suggestion to parents may be added. Teach your children from their earliest play-days to roll or toss balls, run their coaster wagons and other conveyances, and do their other playing parallel to the street, not in the cross direction. The habit once formed will save many a dash out into the traffic.

Still to Be Admired

San Francisco Chronicle

From Italy comes the story that Countess Marguerite Cassini, acknowledged belle of Washington during Roosevelt's administration, is working as a seamstress in Florence.

Only thirteen years ago a Paris dispatch commenting on the beauty and accomplishments of the adopted daughter of the former Russian Ambassador to the United States said: "Whatever may befall, the pretty Countess is never likely to languish in want or obscurity."

Twenty years ago the beautiful Russian had the world at her feet. She could have taken her pick from any number of wealthy young Americans. She was an intimate friend of Alice Roosevelt. Now the Romanoffs are gone. She has lost fame, fortune and friends. The girl whose beauty, extravagance and magnificent gowns were proverbial is eating the bitter bread of poverty.

In these days titles have gone pretty much by the board. Erstwhile rulers of men are casting about for pensions and for other means of continuing to live without working. At least we can admire Countess Cassini for accepting her fate without whimpering and going to work.

America's Ocean Peril

San Diego Union

Under the provisions of the four-power pact of Washington (which has not yet been ratified) Japan was allotted fourth place in the apportionment of naval armament; but that classification didn't worry Japan. She doesn't really need a big navy—her fighting strength is in her sailors.

Japan is a nation of warriors descended from the old samurai clans. They are soldiers and sailors—barring the viking stock of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, the best sailors in the world.

Japan is essentially a maritime nation and upon that fact she is building her navy; she is organizing a merchant marine to monopolize the carrying trade of the Pacific, and to this end she is recruiting her seafaring population to be trained as a reserve in the event of war with any country. Thus Japan accomplishes two great purposes—commercial mastery of a broad ocean bordered by the richest regions on earth, and naval preparedness without the expense of maintenance of a big navy.

There is but one obstacle to Japan's ambition of supremacy on the Pacific—an American merchant marine. At present all the advantage is in favor of America. The war destroyed the maritime trade of Europe and transferred it almost wholesale to the United States from whom it was wrested by Europe during our Civil war. If President Harding's maritime policy is rejected by congress Europe will regain the traffic of the Atlantic and Japan will control the trade of the Pacific—the United States will be a dependent nation subservient to the terms of every maritime power in the world.

In the event of war this country will lack men for a navy reduced in armament and stunted in appropriations for its maintenance. For a long time we shall be compelled to fight under hampering conditions—we were hampered when we entered the World War. A merchant marine to make first line of defense, as it is a first aid to the future prosperity of the nation. Without a merchant marine we cannot compete with the subsidized ships of other powers manned by the cheapest labor in the world. Opposition to the Harding policy of government-aided American ships is not only a blow at the nation's prosperity but is a menace to the safety of the republic.

Federal Marriage Bill

Imperial Valley Press

A bill is being prepared for introduction in the next congress establishing national marriage and divorce regulations. It is sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will back it to the fullest extent.

Under the proposed bill applications for marriage licenses must be posted publicly two weeks before the ceremony. Other restrictions to make marriage more difficult are under consideration. Divorce would be allowed on some five grounds only, as follows: Infidelity, incurable insanity, abandonment for one year, cruel and inhuman treatment or conviction of an infamous crime. Once granted, the divorce would be valid in every state, but neither party would be permitted to remarry in any state until one year had passed.

There is the greatest need either for federal laws of this type or for the complete unification of state statutes. The provisions of the proposed measure as outlined are simple, cover the ground effectively and would go far to establish wholesome restraint upon ill-judged or secret marriages and abolish present divorce evils.

Editorial Shorts

The custom which Presidents Washington and Jefferson instituted and which President Wilson revived—for the President to appear in person to deliver his messages to congress—bids fair to become permanent President Harding is observing the practice. Congress and the country have come to expect this. There was considerable astonishment and curiosity when President Wilson first began it, but this soon wore off, and the Presidential journeys to the Capitol to address congress in person are accepted now as a matter of course.—Pasadena Star-News.

No Rest For the Weary

Stimulates Production

RUBBER heels now are on 60 out of each 100 pairs of shoes worn by men. Such is the estimate going the rounds in the shoe industry.

It is not surprising, if you have noticed how many men wear rubber heels. But maybe you remember back only a few years when rubber heels were unusual.

What brought them into popularity?

The answer is—Advertising.

THREE-FOURTHS of the rubber heels are for men's shoes. This is because most of the advertising has been directed at men. One of these days some wise manufacturer of rubber heels will notice this. Then he'll call in the advertising man and his staff of writers and artists.

Campaigns will follow. And soon women will be wearing just as many rubber heels as men.

It's all a matter of advertising—the most powerful force in the sale of goods. The ideal combination is advertising, which reaches consumers' brains through their eyes, and personal salesmanship which reaches less vividly through the ears.

OUR present standard of living is largely the creation of advertising. For advertising creates the demand, makes people want the thing advertised. When the lure becomes powerful enough, they hustle about and get the money to obtain what they want.

Advertising thus spurs sales. It also stimulates production—both of the things advertised and the things that have to be done on a bigger scale to obtain money for purchasing advertised wares. There is a new thought for you—that advertising is a definite agency of production. Most of us have been thinking of it merely as a medium of salesmanship.

Advertising is what is making us buy.

Advertising is what is enabling us to buy.

It creates the demand. And the demand induces us to work harder to get the money to spend. If all advertising were abruptly discontinued, the American standard of living would quickly drop to the levels of grandpa's day.

Read The Register ads. They are a part of the news, telling the intimate story of the average American's inner desires. The real history of civilization is written in ads.

Worth While Verse

THE GOLDEN STAIR

I built a golden stairway
To lead to Happiness,
A pleasant way, a fair way
Of Pleasure and Success.

I left the crowded highway
Of those who fought and failed.
For their way was not my way—
My stair was golden-railed!

But when I reached the gateway
That crowned my gilded stair,
I looked below—and straightaway
My Happiness lay there!

—By Violet D. Chapman.

Time to Smile

PERTINENT

Mother—Don't ask so many questions, Katie. Don't you know that curiosity once killed a cat?

Katie—What did the cat want to know, mother?—Chicago Post.

HIS ONE MERIT

Uncle—You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Freddie. See what a lot of prizes your sister has got, and you haven't even earned a certificate.

Oh, but I got a certificate once, uncle," said Freddie.

"Indeed! What for, I should like to know?"

"For being born!"—London Weekly Telegraph.

STRONG EVIDENCE

The mother of two boys, aged respectively 5 and 7, had a hard question to settle the other day. The younger boy came to her crying with exasperation that he was "a nickel short."

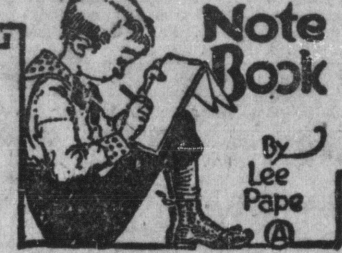

"Well, what's the use of yelling about it?" said the older brother, who was calmly eating candy. "You don't think I took it, do you?"

"I don't say you did," the little fellow replied, "but I'm a nickel short and you're eating candy."—Youth's Companion.

WANTED RELIEF

Farmer's Wife (to dentist)—I've brought Little Algernon to see you, sir. I want you to stop 'im cuttin' 'is teeth at night.—Punch, London.

Little Benny's Note Book

Newspapers

If you want to know what's happening all over the world all you have to do is buy a 2 cent newspaper and save all those travelling expenses. If somebody loans you their newspaper it won't even cost you that much.

No matter how bad the weather is you can always tell if its going to get better by looking at the paper, the only danger being that you are liable to find out its going to get worse instead, only then you don't want to believe it if you don't want to, proving its a free country.

Newspapers are more useful than books because they can be taken apart so different parts of the family can read different parts of the paper at the same time without preventing it from still being a paper, being more than you can say about a book in case you ever did that to a book. Thus your father can be reading the sporting page while your mother is reading the lady page and you are looking at the funny page, unless your father don't want to separate which he generally don't. This is the best way to avoid axing. Its to always have 2 newspapers, even if they are the same paper.

No matter how much you are enjoying a newspaper it always makes you feel funny to look at the date and find out it is yestadays instead of today. If a person is looking at a paper the worst thing you can do to spoil their enjoyment is to go up and start to look at it with them, especially if you don't know them.

Even if a paper is in a forrln language you can still use it to rapp things up and set on in case you mite catch a cold and dont want to.

IN THE LONG AGO

J. J. Zeilian, for many years principal of the Tustin schools, told the U. S. Country Life commission, meeting in Los Angeles, that school curriculums should be changed so that subjects that interest farmer boys may be included.

Because he stutters terribly, Peter Laughlin, a farm hand, who shot and wounded John C. Keefe, of West Orange, in a dispute over wages, was easily caught in Los Angeles.

A petition for the incorporation of Huntington Beach is being prepared, and will soon be ready for signatures.

The associations have sold about three-fourths of the year's walnut crop at 12 1/2 cents.

Three-fourths of an inch of rain fell on Thanksgiving day. Quite a little snow appears on Old Saddleback.

Around the Town

By the Staff

Typical of the expression heard many times during the past twenty-four hours, in commendation of the editorial which appeared in The Register Thursday evening headed, "Consider the Boy," is that of A. J. Blanchard, manager of the Model Laundry and who lives at 607 S. Broadway. Mr. Blanchard came to The Register office purposely, he said, to tell us how much he appreciated that Editorial.

"Since I have grown up," said Mr. Blanchard, "as you will see I am big enough and thick-skinned enough to take care of myself; but when I was a boy back in Illinois I was very sensitive and suffered untold tortures from the thoughtless, not to say careless, custom that prevailed—and to some extent still prevails—among people who employ boys in their shops, stores and offices."

"I feel pretty sure," said Mr. Blanchard, "that a great many people who hurt the feelings of the boys who work for them do not do so purposely—they are simply thoughtless. If people would fix it in their minds that nine boys in ten are naturally and normally sensitive—all the more so if they happen to be timid and not 'gifted with gab.' Even the street boys, so many of whom are 'Johnnie on the spot' with a come-back, in many cases are just as sensitive and just as easily hurt by thoughtless, careless treatment on the part of their employers as are those boys who are given to silence and self-effacement."

"Say," said the Big Boss, as he came bounding up the stairs this morning—"Where's this guy you call 'The tSaff'?"

He's all right—I like his stuff well enough—and I came up here to tell him so. But want to tell him also not to let Cotton Mather get away with that bunk about inducing the public, through the press, to adopt the name 'santana' for these desert winds we have all over Southern California every now and then. That would not get us anywhere. In the first place the name is too much like Santa Ana, and in the second place about half the people pronounce the name of our city Santana instead of Santa Ana. If it should become the general custom to call the desert wind a santana, Santa Ana would then be the goat for fair."

"Another thing," continued the B. B., "is the matter of percentage. I frequently notice very erroneous statements in the paper in terms of percentage—sometimes by the staff (not The Staff) and sometimes by correspondents and people who are making statements for publication. For instance, in the article in Friday's Register about the proposed new Junior High school in the southern part of town, Mr. H. B. Woodrough, secretary of the Harper-Fairview school district, is quoted as saying:

"The assessed valuation of the Santa Ana grammar district is $12,282,765 and the total of the other districts in the Santa Ana high school district, upon which it is proposed to vote the $250,000 issue, is $6,026,477. In other words, the outside districts sending thirty-four pupils to the Santa Ana Junior high school would have to pay over 50 per cent of the cost of the Junior high building."

"Not I don't think there will be 'anything doing' in the way of saddling this burden on the outside districts. Santa Ana needs the additional facilities. This I will admit. I will not admit, however, that we should help pay for the school."

"Now, if I know anything about percentage, the amount that would have to be paid by the outside districts is 33.13 per cent and not 50 per cent. In other words, the total valuation upon which the bonds are to be a lien is $18,309,242, so that the valuation of the outside districts ($6,026,477) is just about 1-3 of the total, and therefore the outside districts would have to pay 1-3 of the bonds, or 33.13 per cent."

The Cause

By Berton Braley

(The people have too much money.—Vice President Coolidge.)

For years we've wondered what it was

That caused the troubles of this nation.

We've agitated, altered laws,

And done much deep investigation

To find the cause of various ills

With which the people were afflicted.

The source of these, however, till

Just recently was undepicted.

It took the mastodon brain

Of Coolidge to reveal the reason,

And logically to explain

Why, season after dreary season,

We suffered from a lot of woes

Which made our tempers far

From sunny;

"The cause," says Coolidge, "I'll disclose,

The people all have too much money!"

The folks who fancied they were poor,

And fighting for mere food and shelter,

And clothes, well, really on a tour

Of spending money, helter-skelter.

Yes, we were getting overfat

From too much milk and too much honey.

So now we know where we are at;

The people all have too much money!

We laugh, but underneath our mirth,

Our anger rumbles, and we mutter,

"What is a man's opinion worth

Who has the fatuous nerve to utter

Such tragic nonsense?" Smile we may,

But none the less it isn't funny

That any grown-up man should say,

"The people all have too much money!"

Since the War

FRANCE.

In France, as elsewhere, the war leader, Georges Clemenceau, is in retirement, and Raymond Poincare, in the premier's chair, is directing the country's rehabilitation. "The dominant thought of the Gallic administration, ever since the invader was driven from French soil, has been collecting of the sum exacted, as reparations, from Germany."

France, the most severely stricken by actual war of any of the great powers involved in the conflict, lacked either the enormous resources of the United States or the huge commerce of the British to facilitate her return toward prosperity. Considering the extent of her losses, however, she has made remarkable progress.

Mixed Cakes

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Here my dears!" said the Green Wizard, "is some magical soap I wish to send to Mrs. Ben Bunny. She's such a good soul. I couldn't refuse her request when she asked me for some magical soap to wash her son's ears. Ben Jr. won't let her touch them, it seems, so she asked me to help her out."
